

RALPH
McGILLRe-take on
Vice President

When I hurried out of the huge dining room in the Statler and sat down at a typewriter the word which came to me was "Schizophrenia."

It means a lack of contact with environment and reality.

We, members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, had just heard Vice President Richard Nixon make a forceful talk. He had discussed Indochina and had said we would send troops if the emergency required.

But the vice president had made it very clear that he could not be quoted, nor could any statement be attributed to him.

So, when I sat down and began an article, "A high government official said today—" I did indeed feel a lack of contact with reality and environment and my personality began to disintegrate. But I plodded on with the "high government official," and the words wouldn't come alive for me. The next morning all the newspapers had those equally schizophrenic headlines: "High Government Official Says We Will Send Troops to Indochina If Need Arises."

Via Paris

By noon it had been solved . . . and from London and Paris. The British and French newspapers were, of course, deeply interested in the statement by the high government official. They also knew the vice president was the only such person to speak to the editors that day. So, they simply queried their Washington offices and asked if it were true that Vice President Nixon had addressed the editors on that day. The representatives said yes, and so when London and Paris began using the name it meant that Saturday afternoon and Sunday newspapers in the United States could also reveal it.

The vice president had also spoken of the case of the famous atomic scientist, Dr. Oppenheimer, who presently is under suspension until his voluminous file can be re-examined. He had said that on the basis of his own personal investigation and discussions with Dr. Oppenheimer he, the vice president, believed him to be a loyal American. Answering yet another question, he disagreed with Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson who twice the day before had said he didn't believe a reformed person deserved a second chance in the defense department. The vice president thought differently. He believed, he said, that each case should be treated separately and that no general rule be drawn.

This, too, became important news once the period of schizophrenia had ended and the high government official could be named. Actually, save for the one specific answer with regard to troops in Indochina, the talk to the editors was one the vice president has made to several groups since his return from a journey around the world.

Graduation

When one goes to see Europe or Asia or any other part of the world, for that matter, one learns things which cannot be obtained from books—though to be sure the latter help. This was a much more mature man who talked on Indochina and on the case of the accused scientist than the one who accepted the nomination . . . and the one who functioned through the first year of the administration.

One got the feeling that he "graduated" six months ago—when he came back from all those faraway lands and the hungry, wretched, uninformed fanatic peoples in whom the new feelings for independence and equality stir and bubble.

He said as much. "We must," he said, "face the fact that these peoples have legitimate aspirations of complete independence, equality and the right to the dignity of freedom and individual life."

He was not sure how we could demonstrate to these peoples that we so believe. Our problem is that we seem to be on the side of colonialism and the Communists are left to reap the propaganda harvests. But Dick Nixon has matured and grown. It was a pity his words had to be concealed, even temporarily.

By ALBERT RILEY

AUGUSTA, April 18—On a peaceful day bright with sunshine and the eternal promise of Easter, President Eisenhower revealed himself today as an ordinary, doting American grandfather—with particular fondness for 5-year-old David, who is his namesake.

Man Jailed
As 3 Die in Fiery Crash

A 41-year-old Atlanta Sunday night surrendered to police and was booked on suspicion of manslaughter in connection with a flaming auto collision on McDonough boulevard Sunday morning in which three Negroes were trapped and burned to death.

The man lay for 18 hours in a ditch within sight of the scene of the two-car crash.

GOT BLACK EYE
He suffered a black eye and complained of chest injuries when he walked into the police station and made a statement to Traffic Sgt. Roy Ethridge, who had been searching for him throughout the day.

Identified as Coleman Smith, 41, 30 Ormond St., SE, the man told police he was "scared and hurt and was afraid to move" during the day-long search in which police walked past him several times.

The accident, one of the worst here in many years, occurred at 1:35 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of McDonough Blvd. and Sharon Dr., SE. Police said the car driven by Smith struck the left rear of the Negro's car, splitting open the gas tank and enveloping both cars with burning gas.

BLOCKED STREET
The two cars careened down McDonough boulevard 75 feet and finally stopped, blocking the street. Smith's car remained upright but the other flipped over.

Auto Insurance Rates in Georgia
To Be Tied More Closely to Risks

Automobile insurance rates will be tied more closely to operational hazards effective April 26—with some drivers paying more and some less, depending upon the age of the motorist and the use of the car.

Georgia Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey made this announcement over the weekend in approving a classification system planned by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, representing more than 150 capital stock insurance companies.

The plan will apply to property damage and liability insurance for private passenger cars. The new rate plan will take into consideration whether a driver is 25 years of age and older, or younger, is single, married, or has children—and whether he drives his car to work, and if so, how far.

At present, there are three classifications. One is for non-business cars whose drivers are 25 years old and above. The second is for non-business cars with drivers younger than 25. The third is for individually owned cars used in business. There will be no change in the third classification.

The new plan breaks the first two classifications into three divisions each, so as to put the higher rates on the cars exposed to the most hazards and lower rates on those not so exposed, Cravey said. The chart will give the lowest rate to the car which is not customarily used in driving to work, and which has no driver less than 25 years of age. This classification will be 1-A.

Next in line for lowest rates will be the car with no youthful operator, which is customarily driven to work and travels a one-way distance of less than 10 road miles. This will be classified 1-B.

Third lowest rate will be for the car with no youthful operator, which is customarily driven to work a distance of more than 10 road miles.

In the youthful driver classifications, the lowest rate will go to the car which is used as a family car and is used only occasionally by the son or daughter, with parental supervision—or where the young car owners are married and have legal custody of one or more children in the household. These groups will be classified 2-A.

Second lowest rates in youthful driver classifications will go to young married couples without children. They will be classified 2-B. The highest rates for non-business passenger cars will be charged the young unmarried car owners or operators. These typically lack parental supervision and the cars frequently are driven by youths, Cravey said. Such cars will be classified 2-C.

Pope Pleads
For Ban on Atom Bomb

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY, April 18—Pope Pius XII appeared in an Easter broadcast today for an international ban on using atom and hydrogen bombs except for self-defense.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church said he would try tirelessly to bring about such a ban by international agreement.

He pleaded for the nations to return to the Christian rule of universal charity to attain peace. Broadcasting from the privacy of his Vatican apartment, the Pope told the world in a 10-minute speech that new "destructive arms of unprecedented violence" had brought "the fear of a third world conflict and a dreadful future" to the people.

He urged the rulers of nations to turn their new knowledge of atomic energy "exclusively to the purposes of peace."

The Pope lumped with A-bombs and H-bombs other mass destruction threats such as germ and chemical warfare.

After his broadcast, Pope Pius appeared on the glassed-in central balcony of St. Peter's Basilica.

FHA Aide,
Cole Says

WASHINGTON, April 18—Federal Housing chief Albert M. Cole said today there is evidence that a former housing official received payment for "favors" in connection with the multimillion dollar scandals uncovered last week.

Cole also said there is evidence of new wrongdoing in federal housing activities not revealed when he disclosed abuses last week in the emergency wartime apartment housing program and the Federal Housing Administration's home improvement program.

SERIOUS VIOLATION

Cole declined to elaborate on the alleged new abuses. Nor would he identify the ex-official accused of taking money except to say the charges include "willful and serious violation of the law."

Cole made the statement on the NBC-TV program "Meet The Press." He later told a reporter the official is no longer with the government and will be prosecuted if the evidence warrants.

He said the official "has been advised by me of the nature of the complaint against him." He added he is "ready to listen at any time" to the official's side of the case, but it has not been given.

HEARINGS OPEN

The Senate Banking Committee opens public hearings on charges of housing frauds tomorrow with former FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Holladay and Asst. Commissioner Clyde D. Powell as witnesses.

Cole is slated to appear before the banking group Tuesday. He heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, parent of the FHA and other housing agencies.

Refusing To Get
Old, He's Killed
By Car at 110

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 18—Edward S. Van Dyne, at 110 the oldest resident of Rochester, was killed last night when struck by an automobile.

Van Dyne was described by a doctor two years ago as a man who "refused to grow old."

Nicknamed "Holy Cow" for his favorite expression, Van Dyne could be seen almost daily shuffling along Rochester streets with the aid of a cane that he had carried since youth.

Van Dyne was born in Augusta, Ga., on Jan. 15, 1844.

WRITES MCCARTHY
Sec. Stevens

Favor Calls
Are Rare,
Army Says

Copyright 1954 By International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 18 (INS)—Defense Secretary Wilson and Secretary of the Army Stevens have notified Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), that their offices receive thousands of "inquiries" annually from congressmen but they said that only on "rare" occasions have any lawmakers sought special favors for servicemen.

Texts of letters the officials wrote in reply to McCarthy's request for data on cases where congressmen urged favored treatment of military personnel were obtained tonight from government sources.

GENERAL NOTE

While Wilson's answer was couched in general terms, Stevens' reply was somewhat more specific.

Excerpts from the letters to McCarthy, dated April 16, follow:

"Both oral and written requests and inquiries are received directly from members of Congress, patriotic organizations, the press and American citizens generally in large numbers. All agencies of the Department of the Army receive and act upon these requests and inquiries daily. It is estimated that such requests and inquiries average over 50,000 a year at the present time. This figure was much higher during World War II."

"Public Law 52, 82nd Congress, specifically authorized all persons in the military service to write directly to the members of Congress. They in turn are under obligation to their constituents to obtain information sought by and to respond to such requests which they receive from time to time."

ASK FAVORS
"I do not suggest that the Department of the Army does not receive congressional correspondence urging action which would result in a particular advantage to an individual, or vice versa."

Artillery Fire
Opens Way
For Assault

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indochina, April 18—French foot troops charged from Dien Bien Phu with drawn bayonets today and drove Red-led Vietnamese forces from trenches along the main airstrip barely 800 yards from the heart of the fortress.

The savage attack was aimed at easing pressure on the embattled garrison, which has been braced for another all-out Vietnam assault. Rebel units had been entrenched on the shell-pocked airstrip nearly a week.

A French spokesman said the bayonet charge was preceded by a withering barrage of artillery and tank fire.

NEW FOOTHOLD

At the same time it was announced the rebels had gained a new foothold in the northwest corner of the bastion, but the spokesman said this was not regarded as serious.

The rebels already hold an important French outpost to the northwest and have used it as a launching point for previous mass assaults.

To the northeast, French patrols, shielded by tanks, plugged new gaps created by Vietnam's pressure against the barbed wire barricades.

The French war effort received another boost with disclosure today of the arrival of a batch of U. S. Corsair fighter-bombers in Indochina. It was the first time since the United States has undertaken large-scale military aid to the French and Vietnamese that Corsairs have been delivered.

DELIVERED BY NAVY
The Navy planes were delivered by U. S. Navy pilots to a French air base.

Meanwhile, the French opened a mass "psychological attack" on the Vietnamese encamped in the hills surrounding the oval plain of Dien Bien Phu.

Squadrons of planes showered down nearly a million leaflets. They called on the Vietnamese to surrender and "stop spilling your blood for Red China."

In an Easter message to the tens of thousands of Vietnamese poised for a third attempt to overrun the fortress, the French told the rebels they could not win.

Ford Fund Elects

NEW YORK, April 16 (INS)—The Ford for the Advancement of Education announced today that Ralph McGill and Walter S. Gifford have been elected directors of the fund.

Both McGill, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and Gifford, who served as U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, were elected to three-year terms on the board of directors.

The fund, established by the Ford Foundation in 1951, is concerned with support of new programs in the field of formal education.

Gore Demands Ike Clarify Asia Policy

Wants To Pin Nixon Down On Possible Entry of GIs

WASHINGTON, April 18 (P)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) demanded today that President Eisenhower say publicly whether Vice President Nixon was laying down administration policy in envisioning the possible use of American ground troops in Indochina.

Gore's demand was made in the midst of a rising congressional controversy over the possibility of direct United States involvement in the struggle of French and Indochinese anti-Communist forces against the Vietminh Reds.

The State Department called this possibility "highly unlikely" but supported Nixon's statement that Southeast Asia must be saved from Communist rule.

SENT AS SUBSTITUTE

Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last Friday he doesn't believe American combat units will ever be needed, but in the unlikely event that the French should withdraw this country would have to send in troops.

Although Nixon sits in with the National Security Council and was sent to the editors' meeting as a substitute for Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga., Gore said he doesn't know with what authority the vice president spoke.

"The President is golfing in Georgia and the secretary of state is fishing at Duck Island while the vice president speaks," Gore said. "The vice president has no constitutional responsibility in this matter and neither does he have the authority to speak on policy unless it is delegated to him."

COUNTRY IS WAITING

"It is imperatively incumbent on the President to make his policies clear with respect to our possible further involvement in Indochina. The country desperately needs clarification and the President is the only one who can give it."

The State Department said in a statement that Nixon was simply sketching a course of possible action he was "personally prepared to support" in the "highly unlikely" event the French should withdraw. It said he had "enunciated no new U.S. policy toward Indochina."

Gore said that did not satisfy him.

RESERVES JUDGMENT

However, Gore said he wants to reserve judgment on the issue and would not necessarily oppose use of American troops in a last-ditch effort to save Indochina from the Communists.

"I am inclined to support the President and the policies of the administration in this critical, tragic and dangerous situation," he said. "But I want the constitutionally responsible officials to be forthright with Congress and the people before any such decision is made."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) said in a separate interview he favors sending ing U.S. combat forces into Indochina if this is found to be the only way of halting Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

OTHERS AGREE

Reps. Vorys (R-Ohio) and Price (D-Ill.) in a radio-TV debate ("American Forum of the Air") both agreed the United States may have to get involved more deeply in Indochina.

Vorys, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the United States is in a period "halfway between peace and war" in Indochina and may avoid getting all the way in if America's allies keep "a united front."

But he said this country should consider all possibilities, particularly the use of naval and air power to support the French. "I think," he said, "in concert with other powers that are willing we should face up to the fact that this is international aggression and not a mere civil war."

Price, a member of the House Armed Services Committee and the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee, commented "it is a little difficult to bring any type of war into a limited scope any more."

Windshield-Pit Epidemic Spreads; Researcher Blames Mass Hysteria

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18 (P)—The pock-marked windshield epidemic left the Pacific Northwest today, spreading far and wide across the country.

Scientists, law enforcement agencies and motorists had many theories, but none has yet explained the mystery.

Ross N. Kusian, director of air pollution research at the University of Washington, said his office will attempt some experiments Monday to determine what substance left a film of dust on many of the pitted windshields. Kusian said he thought the crux of the problem was mass hysteria. He added, however, that it may be something "unexplained."

SUPERCHARGED DUST
A University of Wisconsin scientist, Farrington Daniels, said, "Those cars have been driving through a dust storm."

A group of Seattle electrical engineers said supercharged dust particles landing on rubber-mounted windshields have no place to go and build up a terrific electrical potential. The particles explode into the glass when the energy builds high enough, they said.

But an Illinois state entomologist, H. E. Brown, blamed the pock-marks on insects that give off body wastes. The acids formed pits on paint and glass. Reports filtering in from many parts of the country all had the same ring—mysterious pock-marks suddenly appear.

A farmer near Gholson, Tex., said the entire rear window of his automobile crystallized, breaking into small bits. However, the window remained in the car.

A Madison, Wis., weather observer at Trux Air Force Base said most of the automobiles in the airport parking lot were pocked.

The weather observer, Harold Evans, said winds at high altitudes blew in from the Pacific coast yesterday and may have brought with the air-borne particles similar to those that airplane mechanic even reported plagued Pacific Northwest car owners. Motorists in Darlington, Milwaukee and Madison reported pitted windshields. A Madison eye glasses were pitted.

North of Seattle, the plague hit British Columbia, attacking windshields in Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster and other cities.

Spokane police reported many windshield calls, but said, "A lot of it is hysteria."

Motorists in Illinois and Ohio also report mysteriously pitted windshields.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. has asked for sample of glass from damaged cars to test in their laboratories. Company officials said the results would be ready later this week.

In Chicago, a light rain that blew in from the Dakotas brought dust with it that left windows covered with specks of a brown rusty substance.

HOME DESTROYED—ANOKA, Minn., April 18—Murray Gardiner, 71, and his wife, Ruth, sit dejectedly among belongings carried from their farm home, destroyed by a grass and brush fire that swept about 4,000 acres. The fire spread from another farm, where a farmer had been burning brush.

Ernie Pyle Honored 9 Years After Death

IE SHIMA, Ryuku Islands, April 18 (P)—Taps sounded over the spot where Ernie Pyle fell nine years ago.

It was the anniversary of the death of the earnest little war correspondent who was killed by a Japanese machine gunner while covering a little battle—the kind of story that he wrote so vividly.

Some 300 Americans made the Easter Sunday trip to this little coral island, lying just off strategic Okinawa in the China Sea south of Japan, to pay tribute to Ernie Pyle.

There was a firing squad and a bugler playing taps and a few words around the simple white monument that marks the spot where the best known correspondent of World War II died.

The monument reads: "At this spot the 77th Division lost a buddy—Ernie Pyle."

Spending by Public Found Almost as High as 1953

But Emphasis Is Shifted From Goods to Services

WASHINGTON, April 18 (P)—Despite an increase in unemployment, people are spending nearly as much money as they did last year, the Commerce department said today.

But they are buying fewer automobiles and other durable goods, and are spending more for personal services such as medical care and education, the department said in its monthly survey of current business.

The shift has meant a drop in production in the durable goods industry, where the growth in unemployment has centered.

The public, the department said, puts about 93 per cent of its disposable income (income left after taxes) into purchases of goods and services. It said that during the post-war period spending for food has taken a higher share of disposable income than before the war.

SAVANNAH, April 18 — Two candidates Sunday night charged House Speaker Fred Hand with offering a trade to State Highway Chairman Jim Gillis in the gubernatorial race.

Hand, himself, declared he assumed Gillis was no longer a probable candidate before he announced he would support Gillis for re-election as highway chairman. Hand said he did not talk with Gillis before he made the statement Sunday and that he had not talked with him since. He said he still assumes Gillis will not run.

Gillis, whose answer to the question of whether he will run for governor is of top interest at the convention of the Georgia Association of County Commissioners here, will arrive in Savannah for a speech Tuesday.

ROAD RECORDS

Candidates Charlie Gowen and M. E. Thompson hit at Hand's statement as a trade offered to Gillis. Gowen, Thompson, Hand and Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin—all candidates—are here for the convention.

Hand, Gowen and Thompson promised new road-building records if they are elected. Hand said he should be able, with additional federal aid, to greatly increase the present administration's record-breaking road building program.

Gowen said he would spend the gasoline tax money on roads instead of letting it stay in the banks. Thompson said he would set new records in road building.

Gowen lashed at Hand with this remark: "I had hoped Fred Hand, as a legislator of long standing, would want to preserve the independence of the General Assembly and let it elect the highway chairman. If I'm elected governor, the Legislature will be free to choose the best man it can find. I'll also be willing to let the next House choose its own speaker instead of the governor appointing the speaker as has been the practice in the past."

Thompson predicted Hand's move to "trade" with Gillis will meet with no more success than Griffin's "attempt to trade with the Georgia Education Assn."

Griffin cracked at Gowen while participating in a radio forum. He termed "unworkable" Gowen's plan for preserving segregated, public schools by permitting county school superintendents to assign students to the schools they must attend.

In a statement published in Sunday papers Hand said that if elected he will support Gillis for reappointment as highway chairman. The Legislature elects the highway board.

Hand paid tribute to Gillis as a road builder, and aid the current program should continue. Gillis would say only that he was "grateful" for the Hand statement, but did not say whether or not he would be interested in reappointment.

"GEA SAID NO"

Commenting on Hand's move, Thompson said here Sunday: "A few days ago, Lt. Gov. Griffin made a public offer to give the public schools to the officials of the Georgia Education Assn. To this offer, the GEA officials said no."

"A few hours ago, Speaker Hand made a public offer to continue Mr. Gillis as chairman of the State Highway Board. To this offer, Mr. Gillis said nothing."

"I am offering the people of Georgia a covenant calling for the very best that is in me. In this covenant is a pledge to keep the public schools free and segregated, to keep the public roads free (no toll roads), and to set a record for highway construction during the next four years. I believe that when the people have a chance to speak they will accept my offer."

"CAN'T TRADE"

"Apparently Mr. Griffin can't trade with the school people. Apparently Mr. Hand can't trade with Mr. Gillis. But I believe I can trade with the people of Georgia."

Griffin declined to comment on the Hand statement, other than to say: "I am not yet an announced candidate for governor so I don't feel I should comment. I do regard Mr. Gillis as a fine man."

Kenneth Dunwoody of Macon, president of the association, will make his annual report at the opening session Monday morning. The commissioners will designate some Georgian as the "Citizen of the Year" for an award. Durwood Fye of Atlanta, secretary of the Georgia Commission on Education which is studying segregation laws, will speak.

Blasingame Due To Head Georgia Commissioners

Special to The Constitution
SAVANNAH, April 18—Walter A. Blasingame, of Moultrie, who is running for reelection to the Colquitt County Board of Commissioners in Tuesday's election, is slated to be chosen president of the Georgia Association of County Commissioners here the same day. He is first vice president now.

W. A. Ficklin of Bibb County Sunday night was elected chairman of the board of managers to succeeding Jim Aldredge of Fulton. The board reelected Mrs. Betty Peeler of Atlanta as secretary-treasurer and John Sammons Bell of Atlanta as attorney.

The region's top award, the Silver Antelope, will be presented three outstanding volunteers at the closing banquet.

The South's Growth Strengthens Nation

The nation is beginning to view the industrial development of the South in its true light as a logical development that is contributing greatly to the economic strength of the nation as a whole.

Typical of the changing attitude is an article in the March issue of Manufacturers Record, a Baltimore publication, by Richard R. Harwood Jr., vice president of the Record publishing company.

Mr. Harwood sees industry's move South as a long-range, logical development. He says it will continue. "The South today," he writes, "is the most promising market in the world for goods and services of all types and this is the point to remember."

Declaring that the South has what industry wants, he summarizes its advantages as follows:

Markets: A tremendous demand close by for all types of goods and products and money to pay for them.

Labor: An adequate supply of loyal, native-born, intelligent, productive labor that believes in a fair day's work for a fair day's pay and performs accordingly.

Power and Fuel: An ample supply of coal, electric power and natural gas. The business-managed power companies of the South are constantly building new facilities to stay ahead of the ever-increasing demand.

Climate: A climate pleasant to work in and live in and in which most manufacturing operations can be carried on more economically due to lower heating costs.

Banking Facilities: The South's financial industry has come of age. It is no longer necessary to look to the North for adequate banking facilities.

Natural Resources: The most abundantly endowed region of the U.S. minerals and raw materials of all kinds, close to plants and markets.

Reasonable taxes: A reasonable and fair tax structure with taxes as low or lower than in other industrial areas.

Transportation Facilities: Excellent highways, railways, airways and ports, modern in every respect, for transporting raw materials to plants and finished products to markets, quickly and inexpensively.

Sites: Suitable and reasonably priced plant sites for any kind of industry.

Water Supply: Excellent industrial water resources and little stream pollution, an important factor particularly in textile manufacturing.

Opportunity: The opportunity to set up a plant and engage in a reasonably profitable operation in a land of promises.

Brownell Proposals

Are Worthy of Study

Although several points are highly controversial and open to debate, the 10-point legislative program aimed at the Communist movement which Atty. Gen. Brownell has proposed is worthy of serious consideration.

Certainly the temper of the country would be receptive to most of the recommendations he lists. They would go a long way toward curbing the tendencies to fear and distrust that feed McCarthyism.

There can be few objections to the proposal that changes be made in the Internal Security Act to require Communist-dominated labor unions or business concerns to register with the government, along with Communist-action and Communist-front organizations.

The Brownell request that employers in defense industries be given the right to dismiss workers whose sympathies and associations are such that the national security would be imperiled by retaining them hits at a nagging problem. While this might be abused, it seems that safeguards could be set up to prevent it.

The General Electric Company recently called attention to this danger in its Employer Relations News Letter.

"The problem of Communist-dominated unions continues very large and very real."

"Despite efforts to avoid doing so, the NLRB has no choice but to certify various unions which have been repeatedly accused of Communist domination before congressional committees. Under these NLRB certifications, employers are compelled by federal law to recognize and bargain with these widely suspect unions."

GE cites the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, which has been charged with Communist domination by a number of congressional committees. Its officers have taken refuge in the Fifth Amendment. "Despite all this," GE charges, "federal law protects and assists UE."

It is a touchy problem. Present regulations that seem to protect Communists were set up to protect the rank and file of union labor. This vast rank and file of union members are unquestionably loyal. They would like to clean house and a little help and prodding from the government should be welcomed.

A Communist spy working on secret defense contracts is just as dangerous as one within the government, as we have found out to our sorrow.

Sparks Fund Offers Opportunity to Youth

The Shorter College Scholarship Fund at Rome, praised editorially last week, now has its counterpart in Atlanta.

A group of Atlantans with an eye to good business have started the George M. Sparks Foundation, Inc., to provide scholarships to the University of Georgia's Atlanta Division.

The fund will make it possible for deserving young people to go to college. And it will strengthen an educational institution which has become one of the most useful and successful in Atlanta and in Georgia, thanks largely to the man for whom the scholarship foundation has been named.

The committee has initiated a fine project and it couldn't have done better in giving that project the name of Dr. George M. Sparks, the Atlanta Division director.

Athens City Court Sets Example for Justice

When it comes to traffic code enforcement, the Athens City Court has long been cited in Georgia as an example of stern, impartial justice.

Arthur S. Oldham, judge of that court, has said this of his policy, "Citizens will respect the courts when they are made to understand that the court intends to give them fair hearing and full consideration. We carry out that practice and feed everyone from the same spoon."

The result has been a record in traffic violation control that speaks for itself.

Lt. Col. Eugene Burke, deputy director of the Georgia Department of Public Safety, once said of the Athens court, "If all our courts were operated on the same basis as the Athens City Court, we wouldn't have a traffic problem."

The Athens City Court judgeship is one of the offices for which Clarke Countyans will choose nominees in the county primary of April 28.

Judge Oldham is a candidate for reelection. His opponent is Vane G. Hawkins, for 25 years deputy clerk of the U.S. district court in Athens, since 1951 a practicing attorney and now vice president of the Athens Bar Association.

The Constitution's sole interest in the race is a desire to see the Athens City Court continue a policy that has earned it a statewide reputation in effective law enforcement. It is hoped that regardless of the outcome of the election there will be no deviation from this court's practice of dealing fairly, but sternly with law violators, dispensing justice without fear or favor.

Cherokee County Is Reappraising Its Taxes

Cherokee County apparently is proceeding smoothly with a tax equalization program recommended by its grand jury.

The county tax board is preparing cost estimates from property appraisal firms preliminary to contracting for a countywide property survey.

Property evaluation by an outside agency is no reflection on a local tax board. It is simply a case of calling in the specialists for consultation on what constitutes a difficult problem anywhere.

Equalization is a way of assuring a governmental unit adequate revenue with each beneficiary of that unit furnishing his fair share. Nothing could be more sensible or equitable.

Any city or county that orders a careful scientific appraisal of its taxable property is rendering a service to its citizenry.

Georgians for Housing, Eight Votes to Two

Georgians concerned about the need for continuation of the slum clearance program and for providing adequate low-rent housing can be proud of most of their congressmen.

When the test came on the housing issue, eight out of Georgia's 10 members of the House voted in favor of President Eisenhower's minimum housing program.

To be commended are Representatives Vinson, Preston, Pilcher, Forrester, Camp, Landrum and Brown.

Voting against the continuation of the housing program were Representatives James Davis and Don Wheeler.

Illinois Motorist Has Lost Purse Returned; Thanks State Patrol for Honesty, Integrity

Highland Park, Ill. — It is with gratitude and pleasure that I wish to commend the Georgia State Patrol of both Cartersville and Griffin.

While driving through Griffin on April 3, my family and I stopped for a snack at a restaurant on the highway north of the town. The restaurant was new and had no name. I left my purse containing cash, many valuables and my credentials.

When I was north of Atlanta at 1 o'clock that day I missed it. I telephoned the Georgia State Patrol at Cartersville and the officer said he would phone the patrol at Griffin and they would send me my purse.

It arrived today, intact. Georgia can be justly proud of such fine men of honesty and integrity. I wish to publicly thank them for the high character and moral fiber which must be an integral part of their lives.

I shall always return to Georgia with a warm feeling of friendship for your state and its people as the result of the treatment accorded a stranger.

Buford Highway Said In Poor Condition

Buford—Your editorial of March 25 does not go far enough in backing up the Clayton Tribune on U.S. Highway 23.

Engineers tell me that between Buford and Gainesville the average in car numbers is 3,800 a day. Scores of people say that each car will damage the road at least $1 each time over it.

The condition of this highway and the length of time taken to repair it are a disgrace to the State Highway Dept.

The property owners have been given a raw deal and for those in business it really amounts to the confiscation of their property.

Bisher's Rudy York Column Commended

Rome—Cheers to Furman Bisher for his story in The Constitution on Rudy York. I don't know York, but I have wondered about him, and I think Bisher did a swell job in his column in presenting such a straightforward "as-is" picture of the man and his character. It struck me as an outstanding piece of writing.

Pish and Tosh Given To Milk Editorial

Bishop—If I may write in your vernacular "Pish and Tosh" to your editorial of the 13th on Tennessee milk. You so worded the article that very few would realize that a milk "war" was on, also that only the stores were selling at cutrate prices.

Maybe I overlooked a milk ad in your paper. Is that the answer?

Several years back the Atlanta Constitution did the cattle and dairy farmers a real service when you had Mr. Channing Cope writing for you.

May I suggest that you get someone who is experienced in dairy production and the marketing of milk, and who is also a good writer.

The 13th Man Didn't Agree

From the judicial circuit of another day comes the story of a land title case in which the evidence was clearly for the defendant, but the jury was just as clearly for the plaintiff.

When the jurors reached a verdict in keeping with their sympathy and not the facts, the judge ordered, "Enter the verdict, Mr. Clerk. And then enter, 'Set aside by order of the court.' I'll have it understood it takes 13 men to steal a man's farm in this court."

That almost happened in a North Carolina court the other day. After a jury in the Richmond County (N.C.) superior court had rendered a "not guilty" decision in a drunk driving case, Judge Frank M. Armstrong verbally seared the 11 men and one woman who reached that verdict, read their names into the minutes and ordered that they never again be drawn on a case involving a motor vehicle violation.

The judge said he had debated overnight on whether to say anything or simply let the verdict be recorded as a miscarriage of justice. He decided that the seriousness of the drunk driving problem, along with other traffic violations, made it imperative that he speak out.

And speak out he did. He said the verdict was the most shocking in his 20 years on the bench. He said it shook his faith in that great American institution trial by jury.

He said the "not guilty" verdict meant:

(1) That the jurors did not believe in the drunk driving law. Or

(2) That they were insensitive to the evidence, the law and their oaths.

Or (3) that they preferred to believe the defendant and his companion, who admitted they had been riding around for five hours drinking beer, instead of believing "two reputable, disinterested patrol officers, with a combined service of 23 years, protecting the motoring public . . . at the risk of their lives."

He gave the jurors the benefit of the doubt, finally, by saying if they really reached the "not guilty" verdict on what they thought was the truth, then their error was of the head and not of the heart.

The death rate, misery and economic loss on North Carolina highways and streets must be minimized, the judge said, "but this sort of verdict will not do it."

And he showed the key to traffic law enforcement when he said, "Solon, one of the wise men of Athens, was asked how crime could possibly be abolished. 'When those who are not wronged,' he said, 'feel the same indignation as those who are.'"

In other words, the drunk driver menace will be removed from the highways when public opinion makes it so unpopular to get under the wheel with a drink under the belt that no man will dare take the chance.

South Carolina Blazes a Trail

The rehabilitation of prisoners is one of the great unsolved problems of today's society.

At the rate people are being sent to jail it is theoretically possible that some day there will be more people behind bars than outside. The cost of maintaining these deadbeats and their dependents very well could bring about a curtailment of other government services, and eventually the financial as well as moral bankruptcy of the state.

Crime is on the rise, and once a man is caught in this whirlpool he has a hard time fighting his way out. Many of those in prison today are repeaters and the fact that they are back is not always their own fault. Once a man is branded with the sign of the jailbird, he has it rough. People are sympathetic in the abstract. But give him a job? Restore his self-respect and independence so he can go straight? The odds are against it.

At the suggestion of a Fulton County grand jury, a committee has been formed to attempt to break down public prejudice against ex-prisoners and help find them jobs. Plans are in the making for an honorable discharge certificate for the well-intentioned and the well-behaved. There may be some kind of vocational training, and a job placement service.

This plan is new, but not original. A group of interested citizens of coastal South Carolina formed themselves into a rehabilitation council a year ago, and the group has been at work since fall. The executive director is Frank Loomis, a former Atlantan now residing in Charleston.

As a salesman, Mr. Loomis has done all right. Through volunteer committees, six of them in Charleston County, former prisoners are being found work. Two members of a committee interview the job seeker, study his record, and then look for suitable employment. There is no covering up, no loaning of money, no amateur psychiatry and morale building of the type that seems to bring more satisfaction to the helper than the person being helped.

The council was fathered by United States District Judge Ashton H. Williams, who like other judges, daily deals with the tragedies of men who have no place to go, nothing to do, on their release from prison. Probation and parole officers refer the former prisoners to the council's Charleston office, and then the cases are turned over to the proper committee for action.

Not all released prisoners get jobs. According to Mr. Loomis, some need no help. Family and friends are waiting to aid them in a fresh start. Another group deserves no help. Warden Carl Mills of Fulton County estimates that a good 30 per cent of released prisoners return to crime, not because they are forced to it, but because they just naturally like it.

The tragedy is in the third group, generally made up of young first offenders. Maybe they never should have been jailed. But they were and have been marked. One employer after another turns them down when they learn of their record. And so begins the vicious cycle of jail, freedom, frustration and then jail again.

The South Carolina Rehabilitation Council is the first of its kind. In the few months of its existence, it has set a fine example that other states might follow.

Easter Has Brought Us the Assurance

There are many people walking around, going through the motions of living, yet they are dead or partly dead. Their hopes are dead. Their dreams and ideals are dead. Their reasons and purposes for living are dead. But even the dead are not hopeless. Yesterday was Easter. We heard again how that One was killed and His body was sealed in the tomb. Yet God was not dead and into that lifeless body came life and He lived again. He said, "Because I live, ye shall live also" (John 14:19). We received again the assurance of life after death.

Also, Easter gives us the assurance of life before death. Though we have let the important things within us die, because of Christ there is a new life available even in the here and now.

Once they were building a new highway in England. It was to run between Holborn and Strand. In the way stood a very, very old building. The workmen tore it down and cleared off the ground on which it stood. After the ground had been exposed to the sunshine and rain for some months, a wonderful thing happened. Flowers began to spring up, and botanists and naturalists from all over England came to study them. Many of the flowers were identified as plants the Romans had brought to England almost 2,000 years before. Some of the plants that sprang up are completely unknown today.

Hidden there in the ground, without air and light, the seeds seemed to have died. But they were not dead. As soon as the obstacles were cleared away, and the sunshine let in, they sprang into the fullness of their beauty.

So the seeds of eternal life are in every human life. But we can bury those seeds under such things as unbelief, selfishness, pride, lust, preoccupation, or something else. We talk about reforming ourselves, about doing better, about giving more attention to the finer and more important things of our inner lives, but we find ourselves powerless to resurrect that which we have buried.

Then, if in humility and with childlike faith, we bow before Christ a new life begins to spring up within us. In Korea they call a Christian a "resurrected" person. As we read the four Gospels—Matthew, Mark, Luke and John—we are impressed with how He could make the lame to walk, the blind to see, the sick to be well and the dead to live.

And as we look about us, though there is much turmoil and wrong in the world, still there are many who find joy in living and peace in their hearts. And they can sing, "You ask me how I know He lives? He lives within my heart."

Our Role in Europe Spelled Out by Ike

WASHINGTON—There is something inspiring about the resoluteness with which President Eisenhower has proclaimed anew America's fidelity to the principle of collective security as against the policy of isolated aloofness which prevailed two decades ago.

What the President has just said is that the United States is committed to the defense of all of free Europe, including Germany.

The fact that Mr. Eisenhower issued his statement just after the return of Secretary of State Dulles from conferences with the heads of the British and French governments means that in advance of the Geneva conference an allied front of unmistakable solidarity is being presented.

Mr. Dulles' statesmanlike approach to the tangled problems of the world are not fully revealed by the statements themselves. What is beginning to be realized here is that the timing of certain statements and the careful preparation are all part of a master plan to prevent a third world war. It tells the potential aggressor what to expect if he misconstrues our Pacific attitude as weakness.

The Eisenhower statement is not an executive agreement, but an interpretation. It is not a new commitment, but an explanation of an existing obligation. The key to it all is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It provides that an attack on any of the member countries will be regarded as if it were an attack on the United States itself.

Germany has not been permitted to become a member of NATO and so the European Defense Community plan for continental countries only was devised.

France has been hesitant to ratify the EDC agreement. There have been contentions by French politicians that America would withdraw from NATO as soon as the EDC plan was consummated.

To allay such fears Mr. Eisenhower pointed out that American troops were committed under the NATO plan to stay in Europe as long as there is a threat to peace.

What a different page in history might have been written if those of us who urged American entry into the League of Nations in the 1920s had been able to persuade the Republican administration of those years to adopt a policy of announcing in advance America's prospective military cooperation with France and Britain. Also what a profound impression on Hitler might have been called if President Roosevelt's so-called "quarantine speech" in Chicago in the 1930s, which so many of us supported, had been followed by as explicit a projection of American policy as President Eisenhower has just made. Maybe the second world war would have happened.

Dr. Richard A. Deno of Ann Arbor, Mich., secretary of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, and Thomas D. Wyatt of Spartanburg, S.C., president of the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, will take part in a panel discussion of "The Pharmacy Curriculum."

Other speakers will include Dr. Melvin A. Chambers, dean of the Southern College of Pharmacy, Atlanta; Dr. Kenneth L. Waters, dean of the School of Pharmacy, University of Georgia; W. C. Suggs, of the Upjohn Company; and Robert E. Abrams, Philadelphia, Pa., executive secretary of the American College of Apothecaries.

Officers of the Georgia Pharmaceutical Association are Bill Lee, Newnan, president; Thomas R. Luck, Carrollton, first vice president; W. H. Dunaway, Marietta, second vice president; R. H. Hogg, Macon, third vice president; and L. M. Roberts, Atlanta, treasurer.

Captive Tries To Take Life Twice in Jail

A 23-year-old Negro in jail on charges of drunk and violation of the knife ordinance twice was discovered making apparent attempts to kill himself in the fifth floor detention ward, police reports showed Sunday.

Turnkey Claude E. Murphy Jr. said Willie Hill, 302 1/2 Forrest Ave., N.E., was discovered sitting atop an upper jail bunk with his belt looped, his head through the loop and the other end of the belt attached to a lamp guard.

Murphy said he grabbed the prisoner to prevent him from jumping.

Murphy said he left the cell after Hill seemed to have quieted down, but that upon returning a short time later he found Hill in the same position—this time with his shirt looped and attached to the lamp guard. The prisoner was stripped of his clothes and locked in a separate cell.

In 1870, the U.S. labor force was 14.9 per cent female and 85.2 per cent male compared to 27.5 per cent female and 72.5 per cent male in 1950.

Mt. Yonah Site Offered to Methodists

A 300-acre tract of land at the foot of Mt. Yonah in White County has been offered to the Board of Hospitals and Homes of the North Georgia Methodist Conference by Wallace Bell of Athens to use as the board sees fit.

The Rev. Allen A. Phillips of Villa Rica, chairman of the board, said the property probably will be used for a summer camp for church members over 65.

The board currently is seeking a suitable location for a permanent home for aged members of the church. The home will have to be located near a hospital and shopping center and for that reason will not be built on the White County site, the Rev. Mr. Phillips said.

India Debaters Meet Morehouse Pair Here Tonight

Members of the first college debating team from India to tour the United States will join Morehouse College students Monday night in arguing the proposition: "That world government is the only solution for world peace."

Prof. A. R. Brooks of Morehouse said members of the Indian team will take opposite sides in the Oxford type debate which will be opened to questions from the audience.

The Indian debaters, Mrigendra Kumar Chaturvedi, 22, and Rameshchandra P. Sirkar, 21, are touring the nation's colleges under an exchange program sponsored by the Institute of International Education in cooperation with the Speech Association of America and the government of India.

Monday night's program will be held in Sale Hall on the Morehouse campus. No admission will be charged and the public is invited.

'Wonder Metal' Titanium Predicted for Ships, Planes

Wider use of titanium and its heat-resistant alloys in aircraft and ship construction was predicted here Sunday by a nationally known metallurgist and member of the advisory board to Congress on minerals and metals.

Dr. Matthew A. Hunter of Troy, N.Y., emeritus dean of faculties and former head of the Metallurgical Engineering Dept. of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, said the "wonder metal" already has captured the admiration of aircraft designers.

Titanium, he explained, is stronger than aluminum yet light enough to be ideal for aircraft construction.

Because it also resists sea water, the metal is of great interest to the Navy and the nation's shipbuilders, he said.

Dr. Hunter was a pioneer in developing the process of obtaining metal titanium from its ores and has also done a great deal of work on the alloys of titanium. He is a member of the Minerals and Metals Advisory Board of the National Research Council, a governmental advisory agency.

At the present time the high cost of titanium prevents all but the government from using it, the scientist said. Chief source of the metal is Labrador.

Here for a series of lectures at Georgia Tech Monday and Tuesday, Dr. Hunter decried the shortage of trained engineers in the field of chemical and metallurgical engineering.

"We are not graduating half enough from our colleges," he said, "despite the fact that starting salaries are high in these fields and opportunity is unlimited."

'Dolly' Ballet Mastermind Confident of Broadway Hit

Atlanta theater-goers should see some spectacular choreography when "Dolly" is presented as a pre-Broadway tryout at the Tower Theater Tuesday through Saturday.

Harding Dorn, who played in Atlanta six times as a soloist with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, is the young mastermind of the musical comedy's ballets. He plays the dancing lead and, as choreographer, has blended comedy with jazz to achieve some sterling dance routines.

One of the most unusual dances is the "Ancestors' Ballet," performed by six dancers. The scene is an old private graveyard in the front yard of a house, a quaint old custom of North Carolina villages.

Dorn is confident the choreography will be a hit. He is just as confident about the entire show. "We'll open in Broadway this fall," he said.

The cast of 15 Broadway performers arrived in Atlanta Saturday with producer Stewart Chaney and rehearsal at the Tower Theater Sunday. A full dress rehearsal is scheduled for Monday.

Chaney, famous for set designing and art directorship, is making his debut as a producer. He also designed the "Dolly" sets, employing the imaginative touch he used as a scenic artist for more than 100 Broadway hits.

Bill McGuire, a hit in "The Moon is Blue" in London, and Leila Martin, who has played in ROUNDUP OF MAU MAU SUSPECTS—BRITISH KENYA, April 18—Dwarfed by his impressively armed captors, a native of British Kenya squats on the ground as British patrol leader Norman Hewitson looks over the homemade rubber band gun taken from the captive. Native members of the home guard, armed with guns and knives, watch proceedings. The incident occurred during a roundup of Mau Mau suspects following breakdown of peace negotiations between British authorities in the African colony and the native terrorists.

Pike Calls A-Scientist Fine Citizen

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Former Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner T. Pike said today "I almost wonder" if some hidden motive lay behind the suspension of atomic physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Pike, a member of the AEC from 1946 through 1951, termed Oppenheimer "one of the really fine, able American citizens."

"I would go his bond for any amount," Pike said on "The American Week," a CBS television program.

RIPS CHARGE

"It's extremely difficult to imagine a man who's devoted as much of his life to such high purposes as he has and has come out with such tremendous achievements should be accused of the sort of thing that Robert Oppenheimer is accused of being and doing," Pike added.

"These things are so incredible to me that I almost wonder if there isn't some other motivation behind the apparent one in bringing these charges at this time."

He did not speculate as to what "some other motivation" might have been.

Oppenheimer, who directed development of the first atomic bomb, was ordered barred from all secret information by President Eisenhower last December.

STUDY CASE

A special three-man board is now considering charges that he:

1. Had many associations with Communists and Communist causes during the 1930s and early 1940s. He has always frankly acknowledged this charge but denied he ever was a Communist.

2. Opposed development of the hydrogen bomb both before and after its construction was ordered by President Truman in 1950.

Pike, a member of the AEC throughout the H-bomb controversy, said the nine-member advisory committee to the AEC which Oppenheimer headed opposed the H-bomb before Truman made his decision.

"The President gave his go-ahead," said Pike, "and as far as we were concerned on the commission that changed the whole situation. As far as I know, the General Advisory Committee, in the work it had to do, helped in everything we tried to do. . . ."

Little Hope Held For 13 Lost in Alpine Blizzard

VIENNA, Austria, April 18 (AP)—Veteran Alpine rescue experts said today there was little hope for 10 German schoolboys and their three teachers, missing since Thursday on snow-covered Mount Dachstein.

Mountaineer rescuers returning from the snowy peak today said they heard human cries 6,000 to 7,000 feet up the mountain. However, officials said the sounds probably were an Alpine "mirage."

Maj. Franz Zauner, chief of the Upper Austria Search Command, said he believed none of the missing schoolboys and teachers would be found alive.

The group, including a young woman, disappeared in a freak blizzard. They were carrying only a picnic lunch and no survival gear when they left to climb the mountain.

A foot of snow fell during last night raising the level of fresh snow on the 9,000-foot mountain to nearly six feet. It was so thick and soft that Austria's search dogs had to be carried by men through drifts.

Briton Slain As Unrest Grips Suez

In Egypt Cabinet Follows Shakeup

CAIRO, Egypt, April 18 (AP)—A British soldier and an Egyptian workman were killed today in scattered incidents as new unrest stirred in the British-occupied Suez Canal zone. The violence followed an Egyptian cabinet shake-up and emergence of Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser as Egypt's strong man premier.

A British army spokesman said three Egyptians held up a British army vehicle at Port Said, killing the driver and making away with the driver and vehicle.

SWEARS IN CABINET

Today's attack was the second in two days against British servicemen in the usually quiet Port Said area.

Meantime, President Mohamed Naguib, who stepped out as premier but kept his presidential post, swore in a new Cabinet. He joked happily with Nasser, Nasser was premier briefly once before and later vice premier.

Nasser's cabinet held its inaugural meeting tonight—a short formal session which lasted less than an hour. The session was devoted to an outline of general policy by Nasser, it was reported.

Several official documents which marked the premiership change-over were made public.

SUMMARY OF DECREES

The first was a decree issued by Naguib, as president of the republic, appointing Nasser Egypt's military governor under martial law. This was clamped down on Egypt in 1952 after Cairo's fire riots.

Another decree by Naguib asked Nasser to form a new cabinet.

Other orders issued in the name of the ruling Revolution Council included:

A decision of the Council accepting Naguib's resignation as premier.

A Council decision approving the list of new ministers.

Martha Raye and Understudy Nipped by TV Chimp Fred Muggs

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Comedienne Martha Raye nursed a sore elbow today, courtesy of J. Fred Muggs. The two-year-old chimp, a television star in his own right, bit Miss Raye during a rehearsal of her Saturday night TV show.

J. Fred also nipped Miss Raye's understudy, Vicki Carlson, just after the show.

An NBC spokesman said J. Fred apparently got excited at a sudden noise during the rehearsal and bit Miss Raye's left elbow. Miss Carlson explained, "All I did was turn around to shake hands with Muggs."

"All I said was, 'Good night, Fred,' and he grabbed my hair and bit me," Miss Carlson said. She was nipped over the left eye.

Ringleader of 'U.S. Plot' Executed by Romanian Reds

VIENNA, Austria, April 18 (AP)—The Romanian Communists today announced the execution of a former justice minister and associate of the once powerful "first lady of communism" Ana Pauker as the ringleader of an "American plot" to overthrow the Red Bucharest regime.

Radio Bucharest, the official propaganda mouthpiece of the Romanian Reds, announced that Lucretiu Patrascanu and Rumus Koppler were executed as traitors after a nine-day trial which ended Wednesday.

Nine other defendants were sentenced to prison terms ranging from eight years to life, the broadcast said.

Patrascanu was identified by experts of Radio Free Europe, an anti-Red propaganda organization supported by public American contributions, as the Romanian Minister of Justice from 1944 to 1947.

The RFE experts in Munich, Germany, said Patrascanu collaborated with Ana Pauker in setting up Romania's postwar Communist regime.

Patrascanu was purged by the Communists in 1947 on grounds of "bourgeois nationalism" and is believed to have been held in prison since.

Cpl. Dickenson Goes on Trial

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—It will be heard by a panel of nine officers, headed by Col. Edward S. Dickenson, 23-year-old turn-of-war Korean war prisoner, goes on trial before an Army court-martial here tomorrow on charges he informed on fellow prisoners to gain favors from the Communists.

The young soldier from Cracker's Neck, Va., first said he wanted to remain with the Reds in Korea but then changed his mind two months before the post-armistice deadline and decided to come home. He was arrested while undergoing a medical checkup here.

The case is the first of its kind stemming from the Korean war. The staff of defense lawyers provided Dickenson by the Army is headed by Guy Emery, a retired colonel retained by Dickenson himself. Emery said he plans to meet the Army charges "head on."

Court-martial charges also have been preferred against Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, Kermit, Tex., who like Dickenson first said he would stay in Korea then decided to come home.

It's Not Cold That Brings Shudders To Miami—It's Just a Florida Iceberg

MIAMI, April 18 (INS)—The U.S. Coast Guard station in Miami tonight produced horrified looks on the faces of Chamber of Commerce officials by reporting an iceberg in southern waters off the Atlantic coast of Florida.

The merchant vessel Trinity reported the iceberg about 300 miles off the coast of Cape Canaveral in central Florida. The ship said the ice mass was about six feet long and two feet high. A Coast Guard spokesman estimated the iceberg to be about 16 feet high altogether and weighing about 18 tons.

"I knew we'd been having bad weather, but I didn't realize it was this bad," remarked the Coast Guard quartermaster. He added that the Trinity did not report which way the iceberg was moving.

The information was relayed to Washington for possible action.

The local Coast Guard spokesman said the iceberg was in an area used as a shipping lane to Europe "for slow and not too powerful merchant ships."

Lithium Hydride Tags H-Bomb as a Bargain?

ALBUQUERQUE, April 18 (AP)—H-bombs are a bargain in destructive power. An H-bomb can be made for one-tenth or less the cost of A-bombs of matching explosive force.

Any up-to-date chemist or physicist, says one of them, can figure it out. He nevertheless asked his name be withheld because of the excitement "about these things."

You start, he says, by guessing that lithium hydride is a key component of the H-bomb now being tested in the Pacific.

It's a good guess, because lithium is the most logical element to employ in developing a hydrogen, or fusion, blast.

EASILY HANDLED

Unlike rare uranium, used in A-bombs, lithium is plentiful. Lithium hydride is a simply and commercially produced salt of lithium and it is safely and easily handled.

The United States is well loaded with lithium. But so are Russia and Czechoslovakia. The United States has more than half the world's production. New Mexico, California and South Dakota are the top states. There's commercial production in Maine, North Carolina, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Colorado, Wyoming, Missouri and Virginia.

Neither the Atomic Energy Commission nor any of its Los Alamos scientists now working at Eniwetok has breathed publicly the word lithium.

But as long ago as 1946, Dr. Hans Thirring, an Austrian physicist, theorized in print that A-bombs could be used to trigger lithium and hydrogen into fusion explosion. Only an A-bomb blast can produce heat great enough to start the bigger fusion blast. The trigger bomb can be a small one.

NO ACCESS TO DATA

With no access to secret information, Dr. Thirring said one kilogram of lithium and hydrogen would produce three times as much energy in explosion as an equal mass of uranium.

He also said as many tons of lithium were available for use in superbombs as kilograms of uranium for "ordinary" A-bombs.

Why is using lithium in H-bombs logical? Lithium is the lightest metallic element. Hydrogen is the lightest of all. Lithium rates 6.94 on the atomic weight scale. Fusion explosion should employ light elements in contrast to atomic fission of very heavy uranium, 235 on the weight scale.

Lithium has been mined for many years. It was discovered in Sweden in 1818. Nearly a century passed before commercial uses became important.

Now it's used for ceramic and glass which must withstand great heat.

It's used for the red color in flares, fireworks and signal rockets. The versatile use list includes also dental cement and curing meats.

Give Crax the Aaron Test

EASTER AT PONCE DE LEON: Well, here we are again, like it says in the television commercials, another Sunday at the ball yard. Only trouble is, I'm one of a precious few who were able to show up today. Must be a lot of sickness in a lot of families, or maybe there are just fewer sick grandmothers these days than when I was a sprout. . . . Even this early in the season life in last place is without visible assets. Hugh Poland, the friendly Kentuckian, was asking for a wreath of lilies to wear on his burdened chest.

"What do I need?" he asked in unshowered horror. And then he named off approximately seven positions. "Outside of that, we got a helluva team." . . . The idea is, the New York Giants better get their next pennant in a hurry. Their future isn't on this farm club. . . . The atmosphere in the Cracker dugout, pregame, was one of dignified good fellowship. Somebody looked at Jim Pope and observed: "No wonder those guys are winning. That kid's got that New York Yankee look."

Bob Montag was displaying his scars collected in the circus catch he made on Dick Getter Saturday night. He was so surprised he almost blacked out. . . . While on the subject of left field, let's get the air cleared about Nat Peeples.

The report of league pressure on Earl Mann and Peeples' release to Jacksonville unfortunately came out the same day. There was absolutely no connection between the two, for Mann refused some time ago to be swayed by opinion around the Southern. At no time was any of the action official. . . . Peeples was sent out because he wasn't ready for Double-A. He got a full trial and lost his job in a battle with Montag and Lloyd Gearhart. If there's any doubt about the Cracker's disposition toward Negro players, Milwaukee might send down Henry Aaron for a test.

They're cranked up and ready now. There's Buster Boguskie, who can remember Abner Doubleday as a college boy, stepping up. . . . If Charlie Letches was here, he and Boguskie and Junior Wooten could have a reunion of old Southern Association soldiers. . . . Oops, there goes Spec Padgett's no-hitter. Cracker Billy Porter, the leadoff man, just drove his first serve over the left-field fence. They're off and knocking again.

—Mr. Petty Loses an Old Friend

This is a baseball-loving people? Best baseball town in the country, they all say. Especially if they can get it free. There are about enough people in the stands for a fair-sized cat fight. . . . It's a holiday. Weather's perfect. Crackers leading the league, performing like a World Series team and everybody's home watching it on TV, including the 280,000 set owners who didn't buy booster woks. . . . Reminds me of the fellow impressed by the huge crowd in the pews at worship Sunday morning. "Look at all these people in church," he said. "And I'll bet not half of them go to the ball game today."

Egad, the Crackers are being unjust to Vern Petty's friend Mr. Padgett. Five runs are in and he still isn't out of the first inning. More the Cracker's pepper Padgett, the faster he chomps his gun. . . . According to Bob Christian's Sunday yarn, Petty and Padgett, fellow Gastonians in North Carolina, are close friends. And Padgett is Petty's "turkey" on the golf course. Padgett's still his "turkey" but friendly relations have just ceased. Petty lobbed a three-run homer over the picket in left. . . . They're still at it in the second. Even Leo Cristante, who lofts one about 380 feet out into the left-center pasture. I'm beginning to see Poland's point. Bring on the lilies.

And while you're at it, fetch one for this rookie umpire, Robert F. Burns. He has just made the worst call in my personal history. The dust is still flying far in foul territory up the right-field barn where Montag's drive hit with Frank Torre on base. . . . But Burns calls it fair. These are two runs we'd like to give back. This is a nut. Robert J. must have been pumping his bazooka instead of paying attention. . . . Just a human error, but Nashville's been getting more than its share of this human stuff lately.

—A Foul Is a Foul in Any League

It sticks. Mr. Umpire Burns ain't budging, wrong as he may be. . . . This is the book on the guy: "Sharon, Pa., age 32, height 5-10, weight 190 (increasing fast). Married, has one child. 1950 Mountain States League. 1951 Pony League and Provincial League. 1952 Provincial League. 1953 Piedmont League." But isn't a foul ball a foul in any league? . . . Here comes one new Nashville pitcher name of Dick Hamlin. Remember the old Dodger thrower, Luke Hamlin? There about Whit Wyatt's time. Handled the ball like a hot potato, so they didn't call him Luke, but "Hot Potato."

It's the seventh inning now, and that Hamlin boy has brought an uncharacteristic calm over the Cracker. Not only that, he's just singled and Boguskie has singled behind him and it's 9-2, Crackers. . . . Now Art Dunham dumps one just in front of Chuck Tanner's diving hand and the bases are loaded. This isn't healthy, of course, unless you're from Nashville. . . . Who should worry? That two-for-one combination of ours just came through again. It was Rambone to Porter to Torre, double play. That makes a pitcher mighty friendly toward his infield.

The Vols are still touching up Cristante, but the guy's working with unexcitable ease. It's an Art Fowler-styled job. Fowler used to work like this with a fat lead, occasionally got too unexcitable easy. . . . Whit Wyatt's resting his old folks now. Wooten and Petty come out and Wooten's retiring to the bullpen to sit in the sun. He may not win any pennants, but he'll have the league's best sun. . . . We, or rather, they have done it again, and the Crackers left an appropriate signature to it. A Rambone-to-Torre double play finished it off. Everybody can now rush out to the nearest Shriner and buy a TV booster book. . . . Selah.

Alston's Homer Gains Cardinals First Win

CHICAGO, April 18 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-4, today, recording their first 1954 victory as Tom Alston limaxed a seventh-inning barrage of extra-base blows with a pinch homer good for three of the inning's six runs.

The victory came in the first game of a scheduled double-header. The second game was called because of darkness after two scoreless innings. An Easter Day crowd of 15,774 watched the Card recovery from three straight National League losses—including a 23-13 pasting by the Cubs yesterday. Vic Raschi was credited with the victory. The ex-Yankee pitched six innings, allowing all the Cubs' runs and seven hits. Gerry Staley relieved him after pinchhitter Frank Baumholtz opened the Cubs' lead of the seventh with a homer. He blanked the Cubs the rest of the way on one hit.

Crackers, Vols Split; Barons Here Tonight

Tappe Homer Gives Nashville First Win, Ends Atlanta's Seven-Game Victory Spree

By JESSE OUTLAR

After Atlanta cashed in three homers for a 9-5 victory in the opener Sunday, Nashville finally found a stopper in Bob Giddens and squeezed out a 3-2 decision in the short game.

Thus, 3,738 Ponce de Leon Park fans saw the longest winning and losing streaks of the young Southern Assn. season end simultaneously.

Giddens' four-hit masterpiece scissored the Crackers' seven-game winning skein, and snapped the Vols' eight-game losing binge. It was Atlanta's first '54 setback at Poncey, and Nashville's first triumph anywhere.

In addition to becoming the first Vol to win a game, Giddens earned the distinction of being the first starting pitcher to conquer the Crackers.

Rub out one bad pitch by Dick Kelly—a three-run homer served to Ted Tappe in the first—and both streaks might still be intact.

That was the only serious mistake Kelly made in his first start as a Cracker. He mannaled the Vols on two hits for the final six innings, set down 14 men in a row over one stretch and whiffed seven.

Ironically, Leo Cristante achieved his third success in a row in the first game and was slapped for 13 singles. Kelly gave up only five safeties and lost.

Despite the split, the Crackers remained in a first-place tie with Little Rock, which divided a pair with New Orleans. Whitlow Wyatt's men also took the series, two games to one, and will be gunning for their fourth set in a row against Birmingham.

The Barons move in for a four-game stand Monday night at 8:15. Wyatt said Herb Grissom would hurl for the Crackers, and Mayo Smith will lead with Jack Urban.

Both of Sunday's games were settled in the first inning. The Crackers pounced on Spec Padgett for five runs in the first while Billy Porter and Vern Petty struck homers. And Tappe nailed Kelly in the first inning of the second game.

Bob Montag also homered in the lid-fitter, at least it went in the books as his fourth circuit clout of the year. But even the Crackers were amazed when plate umpire Bob Burns ruled that Montag's drive to right in the second cleared the signs in fair territory. Actually, it was foul by several feet, as some of the Crackers admitted after the game.

Paul Rambone and Petty almost got Kelly off the hook in the sixth inning, but Eric Rodin came up with one of the finest catches ever made at Poncey and thwarted their effort.

Rambone opened the sixth with a terrific wallop to right-center, which Rodin miraculously stabbed. The blast might have gone for an inside-the-park homer, had he missed. An out later, Petty cracked his seventh double, but wilted away on second, as Lloyd Gearhart, swinging for Jim Soli, popped to short.

Alex Cosmidis made a circus grab of pinch-hitter Jack Corin's rap to short center to end Cracker comeback hopes in the seventh.

It was obvious that Padgett was in for rough sledding when Porter parked his first pitch over the left-field fence. Before he recovered his poise, Torre singled, moved up on a wild pitch, and scored on Montag's single. Montag was cut down attempting to steal, but Chuck Tanner walked and Petty followed with his three-run wallop over the wire in left.

Cristante's near 400-foot double and bloop two-baser by Torre preceded Montag's controversial homer in the second. A walk, Petty's single and two infield outs rang up the final Cracker run in the third.

Thereafter, reliever Dick Cracker Boxes

HR, 6 RBI's Sink Braves

MILWAUKEE, April 18 (AP)—Cincinnati's Redlegs parlayed sparkling pitching and power hitting into 6-4 and 5-3 victories over the pumchless Milwaukee Braves today before 27,267 fans in the year's first doubleheader at County Stadium.

Jim Greengrass drove in six runs to raise his RBI total to 12 for the first five games before hurting his back sliding into second base in the third inning of the finale. The Cincinnati slugger drove in four in the first game with a home run and a single and another pair in the second with a double and single.

The Redlegs collected only five hits off Bobby Buhl in the nightcap, but three were for extra bases. Rookie catcher Ed Bailey cracked a home run into the right field stands with the bases empty in the sixth and Ted Kluszewski matched Greengrass' double to round out the three-run first inning.

Irvin Breaks Hitting Slump With Home Run, Two Singles

BROOKLYN, April 18 (AP)—Sal Maglie maintained his Ebbs Field invincibility over the Dodgers today as he pitched the New York Giants to a 6-3 victory for his ninth triumph without a defeat in Brooklyn.

Monte Irvin, who had been held hitless in 11 previous times at bat, paced the Giants' nine-hit attack against four Brooklyn pitchers with a home run and two singles to drive in four runs.

Maglie, in pitching his first complete game since last July 16, permitted the Dodgers eight hits, walked four, hit a batter and was in constant hot water. The 37-year-old right-hander was unperturbed, however, and pitched superbly in the pinches to record his second straight victory over Brooklyn this season and his 20th in 26 decisions against the Dodgers.

Timer Trips Speeders in Crackdown

Patrol Warns 24 'Clocked at 75 mph

An electric timing device checked 24 vehicles speeding at more than 75 miles per hour within a few hours on one stretch of Georgia highway, according to Maj. W. A. Jones of the State Patrol.

The 24 drivers were halted by state troopers and warned that their licenses would be suspended the next time they are caught traveling at such high rate of speed.

These incidents, on the Columbus-Dawson road, occurred in the State Patrol's new public relations and enforcement campaign in connection with the new Uniform Traffic Code.

Other developments of the new law are "runs" on the Patrol for copies of the code and "runs" on garages and signal device firms for installation of directional signal lights for big trucks. Schools, military installation and business firms have requested thousands of copies of the new law—requests which cannot be filled. Trucks are lining up at garages, waiting to have the lights installed as required by the Uniform Traffic Code.

MOSTLY WARNINGS

"We are doing more warning than we are arresting," Major Jones said. "We want to move slowly about making cases until the public becomes familiar with the new law. However, flagrant violators needn't expect any light treatment."

Starting a few weeks ago with two electric timers, the Patrol now has five of these devices in operation over the state. They are moved from one road to another, so that motorists never know where they are. However, huge signs are being placed at the state lines informing tourists that speed on all Georgia highways is "electrically timed."

Major Jones reported that motorists seem to be abiding by the lower speed limit at night. The speed was cut from 55 miles an hour to 50 miles an hour for night driving.

STEP UP SPEED

On the other hand, the troopers find motorists are stepping up their speed beyond the increased limits for daytime driving. The law permits drivers to travel at 60 miles an hour instead of 55 in the daytime.

"We had been lenient in enforcing the old law of 55 miles an hour," Jones explained. "Many motorists got into the habit of driving 60 miles an hour. The new law legalizes this. We find, though, that a lot of drivers who had been going 60 miles an hour all along have started driving at 65 and 70 miles an hour. That will have to stop."

The Uniform Traffic Code, which went into effect March 12, has caused a rush on garage work for big trucks. The code requires the large trucks to have directional signal lights. Garages and signal light salesmen have had all they could do to install these devices. Jones said some truck lines have asked extension of time because they have been unable to get the work done. While no extension can be granted officially, Jones said troopers will be lenient on truckers who are making a sincere effort to comply with the law.

LIKE HOT CAKES

The 100,000 copies of the Uniform Traffic Code first ordered by the State Patrol for motorists have gone "like hot cakes," Jones reported. The district offices of the Patrol have a limited supply, available to drivers without cost. Jones said that one high school, offering a driver's training course, requested 750 copies of the law in order to give each student a copy. The Patrol had to decline. It finally provided 90 copies for the teachers.

Fort Benning requested 3,000 copies for its personnel, and a state-wide business firm made a request for a similar number of copies. The Patrol was unable to supply this number of pamphlets. Jones said the Patrol will try to provide "one copy to the customer."

Oceanic Expert To Speak Here To Harvard Club

Dr. Robert Greenhalgh Albion, eminent authority on oceanic history and naval affairs and professor at Harvard University, will be speaker at the spring meeting of the Harvard Club of Atlanta at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lawyers Club of Atlanta.

During the last war, Dr. Albion was assistant director of naval history, for which he was awarded a presidential certificate of merit. Since then he has been consultant to the Maritime Administration and lecturer at the National War College.

James D. Robinson Jr. is president of the local Harvard club.

Day Nursery Expert Here For Series of Conferences

Working mothers and day nursery operators will have a chance this week to discuss their problems with an authority on nursery operation.

Miss Judith Cauman, day care consultant of the Child Welfare League of America, will arrive Monday for a series of conferences sponsored by Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services, Inc.

Mothers are invited to hear Miss Cauman's views on "What Makes a Good Day Nursery" at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the auditorium of the Life of Georgia Building.

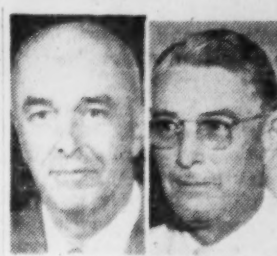

At 8 p.m. Tuesday she will meet with the Association of Atlanta Nursery School Operators, an organization formed voluntarily after local nurseries were publicly criticized by the Atlanta Woman's Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will be held in the Fulton County Health Center.

Miss Cauman will spend the rest of the week, April 19-24, in conference with officials of Community Services sponsored nurseries.

100 Papers To Be Delivered Before Doctors in Macon

More than 100 technical papers will be delivered by recognized authorities on medical specialties during the annual four-day convention of the Medical Association of Georgia, which opens in Macon Sunday, May 2.

Dr. William Harbin of Rome, retiring president of the association, announced the state-wide meeting Sunday. He will be succeeded during the session by the president-elect, Dr. Peter Burum Wright, of Augusta.

In addition to the formal delivery of lectures, more than a score of informal discussions and seminars are also scheduled, according to Dr. Harbin. Topics of study range from cat-scratch fever to such ominously titled subjects as "Prevention of Renal Phosphatic Calculi" (kidney stones).

In addition to leading Georgia physicians, the program lists prominent medical men from many parts of the nation. Dr. Walter Martin, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., is a speaker.

Most sessions will be held in Macon's city auditorium and the sessions with the association, as will Bibb County Medical Society and the state women's auxiliary.

Atlantans Jam Churches For Messages of Hope

but there can be no Easter without Good Friday. In order for Easter morning to dawn, Christ had to die on the cross."

THIS WORLD

"A man will never know the glory of immortality in another world unless he knows it in this world," he said.

Some 40 Northside churches participated in the service. A choir of some 75 voices, composed of choir members from the participating churches, sang. Beverly Wolff was soloist.

Throughout the morning overflowing throngs worshipped in the city's churches, which were lavished with lilies and palms.

More than 3,000 attended the two morning services at Grace Methodist Church where Dr. Charles L. Allen told them that as a result of the Resurrection we can know that God will not be defeated. He had the last word. After man had done his worst, God triumphed, and we can know that He will triumph in this world today.

SING MASS

Some 60 white-clad seven-year-old children received their first communion at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of the Assumption at a Cum Jubilo Mass sung by the children of the parish school.

Afterward, the Rev. Cornelius L. Maloney, parish administrator, reminded the congregation of the teaching of Blessed Pius X called "the children's pope," who said, "Music should pray and prayer should sing, and man should worship in beauty."

At Druid Hills Presbyterian Church Dr. P. D. Miller told his congregation that Jesus appeared first to Mary Magdalene on the Resurrection morning because she had the most desperate sense of need for him—and that He still is the most real to those who need Him most.

CROWDS FLOW

More than 1,500 people received Holy Communion at the Cathedral of St. Philip (Episcopal), where more than 100 chairs set on the lawn outside the church were not sufficient to accommodate the overflowing crowds at the three morning services and the children's service in the afternoon.

Dean Alfred Hardman told the cathedral congregation, "I would say to the weakest of you, be of good cheer. Christ is on your side. This is the glorious Easter message I leave upon your souls today. He seeks you out first that He may bless you."

"The very sins you mourn over, the very dread you have lest you return to your evil ways, your weakness and fear of self, these are the reasons why He seeks you out first—to build you, to strengthen you."

Forty-seven children and adults joined Peachtree Christian Church in a service at which Dr. Robert Burns said that Easter is more than an anniversary of Christ's resurrection—it is a time when Christians celebrate a rebirth of faith in their own hearts.

RISEN LORD

Speaking on "The Risen Christian," Dr. Burns said that a Christian who comprehends the full significance of the Easter message is made new in his mind through new ideas, new in his heart through his friendship with Christ and new in his work through the tasks Christ sets for him.

At the Cathedral of Christ the King the Rev. John McDonough said, "On this Easter no matter what our own personal sorrows or worries may be we find ourselves lifted up with the Risen Christ. His Resurrection is for us a personal gift and we feel a personal joy in sharing His joy. Our joy is in knowing that Christ lives with us in everything we do. It is our consciousness of the Risen Christ which gives us the comfort, strength and security we need to face life in our day and age."

The Rev. Theodore G. Ahrendt said at Grace Lutheran Church that the resurrection of the living Lord in the lives of men is more potent than the hydrogen bomb.

"So far, with these new gifts of God, man has mainly been destructive," he said. "But the power of the Risen Lord is always constructive."

RECALL DARK

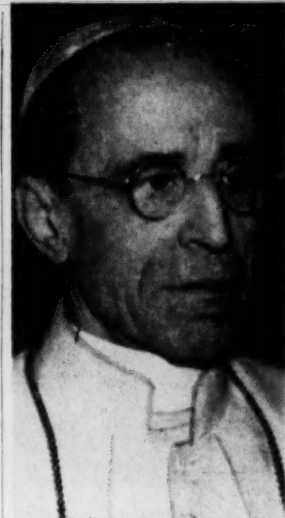

The Rev. Alvin H. Brackett of Sylvan Hills Baptist Church reminded his congregation, "The Resurrection morning shines much brighter, is filled with greater glory and speaks to us of a more meaningful victory when we remember the gloom and darkness of Calvary which preceded it."

The Easter services lasted into the evening, when the traditional Easter cantatas were sung in many churches.

Gov. Talmadge, speaking at the annual Easter service for Scottish Rite Masons in Macon, said, "America grew great upon a foundation of faith in God and adherence to His commandments, and America will surely fall if her people fail to continue in this vein."

"The great need of today is for a rebirth of fundamental faith—faith in ourselves, faith in our institutions and way of life and faith in God and His Son, Jesus Christ," he said. "Without it we are in grave danger of losing the heritage which our forefathers, with God's help, sacrificed to leave us."

gallery of St. Peter's basilica and pronounced upon a throng of more than 300,000 pilgrims and tourists his "Urbi et Orbi" blessing—to the city of Rome and to the world.

The Pope referred briefly to the abdominal ailment which had curbed his activity since Jan. 25. "I give thanks to divine providence to be with you again this Easter," the pontiff said.

He recalled that as long ago as 1943 he had said atomic weapons were capable of bringing about "a dangerous catastrophe for our entire planet."

Renewing his statement of fears that atomic destruction could pollute areas distant from the actual nuclear explosions and result in total extermination of all life, the Pope said:

"Thus before the eyes of a terrified world there is presented a preview of gigantic destruction, of extensive territories rendered uninhabitable or unfit for human use, over and above the biological consequences that can result, either by the changes brought about by germs and microorganisms, or through the uncertain effect which a prolonged radioactive stimulus can have upon greater organisms, including man and upon their future offspring."

He said human genes could suffer changes that would alter man's course and result in deviations that would cause "transmissible diseases and monstrosities."

"For our part, we will tirelessly endeavor to bring about by international agreements—always in subordination to the principle of legitimate self-defense...—the efficacious proscription and banishment of atomic, biological and chemical warfare," he said.

"At the same time we ask: For how long will men insist on turning their backs on the salutary light of The Resurrection, seeking security instead in the deadly blasts of new weapons of war?... When will the rulers of the nations realize that peace cannot consist in an exasperating and costly relationship of reciprocal terror, but in the Christian rule of universal charity?..."

The pontiff closed his statement with a prayer to the Virgin Mary, ceremonies, William H. Cooper, the church building contractor, said, as the President spread mortar with a silver trowel, "You're a pretty good bricklayer."

The President grinned and said, "I used to do this on the farm," as photographers and newsreel cameramen recorded the proceedings.

With the temporary sanctuary of the Reid Memorial Church already filled, several hundred Augustans lined the streets near the church as the President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived for the 9 a.m. services. They were accompanied by their son, Maj. John Eisenhower and his wife, Barbara, and by Mrs. John S. Doud, the President's mother-in-law.

Eisenhower thanked the Rev. Mr. Heitzel for allowing him to participate in the ceremony and said it was "a very great honor."

A passenger in the Negro car crawled out through a shattered window and collapsed on the street, his clothes ablaze. The man identified as LeRoy Long, 28, 1582 Hardee St., was rushed to Grady Hospital and is in "extremely critical condition" with 75 per cent of his body burned.

Burned to death were Viola Bennett, 46, 257 Bust St., NW, George Mosley and Edd Lee Mosley, both of 1874 Akron Dr., SE.

Police quoted Smith as saying the car "suddenly loomed up in front of me, apparently from out of a side street. It didn't have any lights on it. Just as I hit it flames shot out all over the place. I stopped as quickly as I could and ran. I was scared to death I guess."

questioning a particular assignment of seeking special consideration. "These occasions are rare, however, and are handled within the Department of the Army in strict accordance with established policies and procedures designed to insure fair and ethical treatment of all military personnel."

"Because of the volume of cases received and the organization of the Department of the Army filing systems, which are not designed to isolate such requests, it is not possible for me to ascertain or estimate with any degree of accuracy the number of requests for special assignment or treatment which have been received."

"I may say in general that all correspondence of this character is regarded as personal and is normally not released to the public unless the respondent cares to take such action."

WILSON REPLY

The highlights of Wilson's two-page reply follow: "The volume of inquiries received in the office of the Secretary of Defense is quite large. These inquiries include personnel matters, matters relating to procurement, questions as to the opening or closing of military installations, and many similar questions."

"Communications either in writing or when received orally in regard to individuals are normally referred to the three military departments for direct reply or for information upon which this office can base a reply."

"Since requests for information in regard to military personnel are always in regard to individuals who are under the direct control of the military departments, relatively few letters of this type are received in this office, and they are almost invariably referred to the military department when we do receive them."

"Such processing as is required to answer inquiries and to refer them to the military departments for direct answer is accomplished as an additional duty by a very small staff in the office of the assistant secretary of defense for legislative and public affairs."

ARMY CHARGE

The letter to McCarthy, accused with his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, of applying pressure on the Army to win special favors for drafted McCarthy investigator Pvt. G. David Schine, continued:

"The processing of correspondence in regard to personnel takes place in conjunction with all of the other types of correspondence and neither the files nor the types of cases involved is segregated in any way.

"A rough estimate of congressional correspondence on all subjects received by this office is in the order of 5,000 to 10,000 separate letters a year. Telephonic and personal contacts of a similar nature are numerous, but their number cannot be estimated."

"It is not the policy in my immediate office to have a stenographer monitor telephone calls. I understand that calls are monitored in other offices in the Department of Defense. Where this is done it is for the primary purpose of insuring accuracy and speed, particularly when facts and figures are being transmitted."

"It is not the policy of this office to make public its correspondence. From time to time the interest of the public may force an exception to this rule but it is my policy that the recipient of our replies should be consulted prior to making such correspondence public."

"I regret that the absence of statistics on this subject makes it impracticable for me to be fully responsive to your request."

Easter Parade

Moppets Lead Mamas in Frills

By BETTY CARROLLTON

Suits led the rank—and riot—of colors in the 1954 edition of the Easter Parade here as Atlantans donned their fanciest finery with moppets taking a slight lead over mamas for frills.

Navy blue suits, accented with white, predominated but spring toppers in almost every pastel shade were favored by many who attended morning services at various Atlanta churches. Congregations were sprinkled with bright print dresses, competing with the gayest flow garden for color variety. Stoles ran a close second to toppers with many waxy women wearing fur neckpieces.

Milady's millinery comprised the most colorful phase of the parade, with accent on hue rather than havoc with the designer's originality. For the most part, hats could be described as "sensible," with small chapeau complementing short-style coiffures. Pastel shades reigned, with blue and pink leading. Flowers and veils were favorite hat ornaments.

Members of the moppet set were among the best dressed in fancy sheers featuring full, frilly skirts. Their Easter bonnets were of yellow or white straw, tying under the chin.

Two pre-teens teetered up the steps of one church in their first pair of high-heeled shoes. While observers wondered if they were about to witness the day's first minor accident, the duo's only concern was "is my stocking seam straight?"

Mrs. Roy S. Connatser, 1456 Peachtree Battle Ave., was striking in a chapeau which she declared was "not a new one." The white crown was accented with a black velvet tier effect and pearl-studded veil. She wore a black suit with pink sheer blouse.

Miss June Atkinson, 1229 Virginia Ave., NE, wore an aqua printed silk dress under a black faille coat. Her wide-brimmed hat was of black straw.

Mrs. Norman D. Courter, 3403 Tuxedo Rd., NE, was attired in a gray suit and a blouse of yellow printed silk. The lining of her boxer jacket and band around the crown of her wide-brimmed white hat were of matching material.

Miss Barbara Kiengle, 374 Paces Ferry Rd., was dressed in a suit of pastel blue, featuring white cuffs. Her small hat was of light blue.

Miss Robarts Is Wed to Lt. Seaton

At a late afternoon ceremony solemnized Sunday in the chapel of the Decatur Presbyterian Church, Miss Helen Jean Robarts became the bride of Lt. Robert F. Seaton, USN, of Washington, D.C., with Dr. Wallace Alston officiating.

After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Faye H. Robarts, entertained at a reception at the Candler Hotel in Decatur.

Mr. Robarts gave his daughter in marriage, and Mrs. Fred Rogers of Birmingham, the former Judith Taylor of Decatur, was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Sandra Seaton and Dorothy Wait.

Ensign Donald W. Seaton Jr. was best man for his brother, and in the double role of usher-crownsman were Hal Jensen of Detroit, Lt. Donald Kalkins, USN, of Pensacola, Fla.

Gene Austins' Home a 'Blue Heaven' on Wheels

By AGNES McCARTY

A man who rose to fame 25 years ago singing "My Blue Heaven" found that a house trailer is more convenient than a nestling nest for a man who follows the bright lights rather than the little white light.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Austin—Gene is also noted for introducing and popularizing "Girl of My Dreams"—make their home in a portable aluminum cottage. They transport their living quarters all around the country while Gene is making personal appearance tours.

For the next week the Austins' address is one turn to the right off Avenue A in an Atlanta trailer court. Gene is currently singing his nostalgic tunes at the Henry Grady's Paradise room.

HEAVEN ON WHEELS

Mrs. Austin, who has brown eyes, reddish hair and is a perfect size ten, has been making life heaven on wheels for Gene since their marriage three years ago. Both have daughters by former marriages but they have homes of their own or are following movie careers, so the Austins' only traveling companions are three parakeets.

Petite "Lou" Austin finds living in a trailer much easier than living out of a suitcase. The former model loves full-skirted, feminine clothes and finds them easy to transport in a roomy clothes closet.

Lou has extensive fashion experience and has shopped in every metropolitan city in the United States. She names Atlanta, along with Dallas and New York, as having the best fashion merchandise in the country.

Mrs. Austin is an excellent cook, according to her husband, whose portly physique authenticates his lavish praise of Lou's lemon chiffon pie and fried chicken.

The entertainer's wife notes that "Gene's a little apt to put on weight." Austin believes the only way to take pounds off is to "eat everything you don't like and stay away from everything you do like." But he's reluctant to follow that theory when Lou whips up some of her old-fashioned potato salad—another favorite on the family table.

SECRET IN MIXING

Mrs. Austin says she uses mayonnaise, eggs, pickles, onions and potatoes in her salad "just like anyone does." But she believes the secret of success is in mixing the ingredients while the potatoes are warm so that the dressing "soaks in."

Lou met Gene when he was appearing in St. Louis at the Park Plaza Hotel. He noticed her at a front table and asked her favorite song. He was startled when she asked for one of his first waxings. "I Wish I Had Died in My Cradle."

"Not exactly jolly but we've made up that sombre beginning by having lots of laughs together ever since. We're both the roving type and wouldn't be happy in a home unless it had wheels. That's why we hit it off so well together," Gene says.

GWTW Is Coming Back

There seems to be a conspiracy in the news these days to make a lady feel old. That item, for instance, about Anthony Eden's son squiring Princess Margaret Rose about. His SON, for heaven's sake! Why, some of us still regard the old man as a pretty gay young blade. In fact, I thought he was the beau ideal of American girls everywhere... but that must have been 25 years ago.

Then they're bringing "Gone With the Wind" back. My first reaction to that was one of delight. Why, the children are old enough to see it now, I thought. And then I started thinking back on the years that "GWTW" has been kicking around the world, piling up records of one kind or another, and it is a little saddening.

Margaret Mitchell's epic story premiered here 15 years ago next December 15, and has been re-released at five-year intervals since then. All kinds of things have happened to its stars. Vivien Leigh went on to success after success until she had some sort of collapse in New York last year. Clark Gable lost his dearly loved wife, Carole Lombard, in a plane accident, tried another marriage (with Lady Sylvia Ashley), made a lot of pictures but, as he himself says, never one that could approach "GWTW" for quality. Leslie Howard, the perfect Ashley Wilkes, is dead. So is Aunt Pitty Pat (Laura Hope Crews) and Belle Watling (Ona Munson) and Mammy (Hattie McDaniel).

Olivia de Havilland, who loved the story and her part of Melanie so much she brought her husband, Marcus Goodrich, to Atlanta on their honeymoon, has had a baby, a divorce and a new husband since then. And, of course, both Margaret Mitchell and her husband, John Marsh, have died.

Needless to say the years have made many differences—happy and otherwise—in the lives of the people who saw and loved the movie for the first time back in 1939. Children have been born and grown old enough to read the book and see the movie. A world war has been fought, the United Nations born, the atom bomb developed, the last Georgia Confederate veteran is dead.

Sometimes it breaks your heart to think that things survive after the people who used them are dead but that kind of feeling will not sadden the festivities attending the opening of "Gone With the Wind" at Loew's Grand May 20. It's reassuring to realize that the good men and women is not always, as Mark Anthony said, "interred in their bones." Good work, a good book, a good performance, lives on to delight generations as yet unborn.

Seeing the picture again will be exciting, of course, even to those of us who have seen it many times. (A young press agent I know in Hollywood solemnly assured me he had read the book six times and seen the movie two dozen times and he could hardly wait for it to be re-released.)

If Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is successful in getting Clark Gable to come to the re-opening the excitement will be even more high pitched because, through good pictures and bad, The King still reigns in the hearts of many movie-goers who can forgive him anything as long as they remember his Rhiannon Butler. He is not a premier-gor. In fact they tell me he never went to one until he came to Atlanta for "GWTW" and that was because he wanted to see Margaret Mitchell and personally thank her for writing the book.

Anyhow, "GWTW" is making its every-five-years reappearance and that's fine. We'd all better go and see it because who knows what will happen by the time it comes back in 1959?

WEDS AT CHURCH
Mrs. Eugene Maughon

Miss Luallen Is Bride of Mr. Maughon

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Luallen of Heflin, Ala., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Luallen of Atlanta, to Eugene Maughon, son of Mrs. Clio Edna Maughon and the late John E. Maughon of Atlanta, which took place Sunday at the First Methodist Church, with Dr. Wallace Rogers officiating.

Harold Luallen gave his sister in marriage, and she was attended by Mrs. Charles M. Taylor as matron of honor.

John Maughon was best man for his brother, and serving as groomsmen were Phil Latta, Charles McGeehee, William Jeffers and Johnny Lancaster.

After a honeymoon at Charleston, S.C., and a motor trip through the Shenandoah Valley, the couple will reside in Atlanta. Mr. Maughon is a graduate of the Atlanta Law School, and is associated with General Motors, Inc.

Annie Lou Hardy George Warren Thomas To Be Christened Here

Visitors arriving Monday are Lt. George Thomas, U.S. Air Force, Mrs. Thomas and their young son, George Warren, of Montgomery, Ala., to be guests for a week of Mrs. Thomas' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Green Warren, on Habersham road.

Small Warren will be christened at 5 o'clock on Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church in Marietta, with the Rev. Harry Holland officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Dillon Winship will stand as godparents for the baby. Mrs. Thomas is the former Anne Warren.

MRS. WIMBERLY POOLE arrives Tuesday from New York for a week's visit to her cousin, Mrs. R. E. House, on Rock Springs road, and to Mrs. George Beattie on Pine Valley road.

MRS. SHELLEY DAVIS leaves Monday for Nashville, Tenn., where on Wednesday she will address the combined meeting of the Medical Association of Tennessee and the Medical Auxiliary. Her subject will be "Organizing Community Health Councils."

Mrs. Davis will be installed as president of the Auxiliary to the Medical Association of Georgia at a meeting to be held May 4 in Macon.

Another Atlanta scheduled to speak at the Nashville meeting is Dr. Christopher J. McLoughlin. He will be accompanied by Mrs. McLoughlin.

MR. AND MRS. THORNWELL JACOBS JR. have issued invitations to a cocktail party to be held on Friday, April 30, at their home on Lady Marion Lane. A hundred guests will assemble between 6 and 8 o'clock.

A LONGING TO SEE THE TULIPS blooming in Holland will take Mr. and Mrs. Leo P. Kilpatrick across the Atlantic this week. Leaving Atlanta on Thursday, they will board a plane in New York on Friday for a three-week tour of Europe. Mr. Kil-

LOUISIANA VISITORS—Mr. and Mrs. Alan Shaw and their son, Alan Jr., arrived last week from Lafayette to be guests of Mrs. Shaw's mother, Mrs. C. H. J. Becker, at her home on Peachtree road for two weeks. Mrs. Shaw is the former Doris Becker of Atlanta.

patrick grows tulips as a hobby, his gardens at his Druid Hills home being one of the city's beauty spots.

PICTURED in the summer issue of The Modern Bride are those newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant III, who were photographed during their honeymoon at the British Colonial Hotel in Nassau. Mrs. Grant is the former Louise Mandeville.

Films Council To Celebrate

A beautifully-frosted cake bearing 32 candles will be a feature of the annual birthday luncheon given by the Better Films Committee at 12:30 o'clock on Thursday, April 22, at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Mrs. Alva P. McCrary, president of the organization, will preside, with Mrs. Casper Johnson Jr. as general chairman, and Mrs. Harold Carson as co-chairman. Mrs. Wyman P. Sloan will be in charge of the music, and Mrs. Mary Mobley will arrange the flowers.

Lander Motors Offers Sensational 10,000 Mile Guarantee

Georgia Tent & Awning Co. Offers 'Fresh Look' for Home

Style and design keyed to the attractive and durable through the years. For instance, Georgia Tent's Vent-a-Lume aluminum awnings lend the "soft touch" to your home. Properly ventilated for summer comfort, the Vent-a-Lume is available in a wide variety of color combinations, with "baked on" porcelainized enamel finishes. Vent-a-Lume awnings add real value to any home.

If your preference lies in canvas awnings, treat your home to vivid Beutex awnings, styled in modern colors, both in solids and stripes. Beutex awnings are weather-treated against sun and rain, and you can have them installed for your windows, porch or terrace.

The Georgia Tent & Awning Co. also features Weather-King glass jalousies. Already installed in many homes throughout the state, Weather-King glass jalousies add more living area, comfort and value to any home. Ideally suited for kitchens, breakfast rooms, dens and playrooms, Weather-King glass jalousies come with either clear or obscure panes. Solid-extruded, with structural aluminum frames for permanency, Weather-King glass jalousies can be installed in your home without extensive remodeling and are a wonderful way to get more living space without actually making an addition to your present house.

In addition to awnings and glass jalousies, Georgia Tent offers Georgia-Lume all-aluminum window screens. Made of all-aluminum wire, they never need painting. You can leave them up the year 'round for all-season protection. Your screens are custom-fitted to your windows.

All of these products for better and more comfortable living—Vent-a-Lume aluminum awnings, Weather-King glass jalousies, Beutex canvas awnings and Georgia-Lume all-aluminum window screens—are manufactured, sold, installed and guaranteed by Georgia Tent & Awning Co. For a courteous representative to call, day or evening, telephone CY. 7551, or write Georgia Tent & Awning Co., 228 Margaret St., SE, Atlanta. No obligation, of course.

This Applies to New '54 Dodges And Plymouths

Every new Dodge or Plymouth sold by Lander Motors now carries a sensational new-car guarantee good for a full year or for 10,000 miles, according to an announcement by John Lander, president. This special Lander Motors warranty, good for four times as long as the standard factory warranty, is an expression of Mr. Lander's confidence in the 1954 model Dodge and Plymouth cars. Purchasers receive the one-year, 10,000-mile guarantee in writing, signed by Mr. Lander, and attached to the regular factory warranty.

"We have serviced enough of these cars to know where we stand," Mr. Lander said, "and knowing them as we do, we have no hesitancy in giving such a guarantee. It simply gives every customer written assurance of a year's trouble-free driving when they buy a Dodge or Plymouth from us."

As in the past, Lander Motors will continue to offer free lubrication as long as a customer owns any new car purchased from them. The free lubrication will be in addition to the 10,000-mile, new-car guarantee, and has no expiration date.

"We will still make the top trade-in offer for your old car, too," Mr. Lander said. "Our used car department is in great need of late-model cars right now, and as long as this situation continues we can promise you a good deal."

The new 1954 Dodge is longer and lower than in the past, with a trim, stream-lined beauty unmatched by any other 1954 car. The new Red Ram V-8 offers 150 horsepower, with features that include a fully automatic transmission with no clutch pedal, Full Time Power Steering, and genuine Air Temp Air Conditioning.

Both the new Dodge and Plymouth are luxuriously appointed, with unusual color harmony throughout. They offer power, beauty, luxury, comfort, safety and all the other features the American public wants in an automobile, plus a fresh new design that is proving extremely popular.

Before you buy any car, Lander Motors invites you to drive a new Dodge or Plymouth. There is no obligation and demonstrators are always available at Lander Motors, 25 North Ave. between the Peachtree. For your convenience, they're open every night until 9 p.m.

"MAGNIFICENT PERFORMANCE"—John Lander, President of Lander Motors, is proud of the trim beauty and magnificent performance record of the new Dodge Red Ram V-8. As an expression of confidence, he now guarantees any new car bought from Lander Motors for a full year, four times as long as the standard factory warranty, or for 10,000 miles, whichever occurs first.

Don't Throw Away Old Furs; Let Ruben Remodel Them

Transforming your present furs into a handsome cape, stole or jacket for the new spring and summer seasons—and at special low prices—is now being featured by Ruben's, 222 Grand Theater Building, widely known local furrier and designer.

The firm now has in stock the latest capes, stoles and jacket styles for spring and summer. Also, Max Ruben, manager, will restyle your old coat into a new-style cape or jacket.

Ruben's Fur Shop also offers excellent storage service for your winter furs. They have an enlarged storage plant which enables them to give better storage service to their many patrons.

Mr. Ruben, owner and manager, states that capes and jackets will be the style for spring and summer. He says that "now is the time to come in and get fitted in a new cape or jacket of the latest style."

Mr. Ruben offers the further advice that it is foolish to throw away your old coat. He can remodel you coat or make whatever changes are necessary to bring it to the current fashion. In remodeling the first makes a fitting of cloth material so that a perfect fit of the remodeled coat is assured.

This firm now has special prices for the remaking of an old coat into a new-style cape or jacket.

Mr. Ruben has been engaged in the fur business for many years—practically all his life—and he extends a most cordial invitation to the women of Atlanta to visit his shop in the Loew's Grand Theater Building and select their cape or jacket for spring and summer. Call him at WA. 8751 and make an appointment to be shown his attractive line of furs—or just drop in.

Remodeling and repairing of

"IT'S BEAUTIFUL"—Latest styles in smart furs and fur accessories are featured by Ruben's Fur Shop, 222-222 Loew's Grand Theater Building. Max Ruben, above, specializes in remodeling old fur coats into current styles, such as cloche capes, stoles, short coats, etc. Above, he gives full approval to the handsome fur coat modeled by a customer. See story.

Furs are done by experts and the fur shop guarantees the finest workmanship that can be obtained in the City of Atlanta. They also feature cleaning and glazing of furs that bring out their natural luster and beauty.

In regard to restyling and remodeling of old coats, Mr. Ruben says:

"Folks have learned that when they want furs remodeled, cleaned, reconditioned or repaired, it pays to go to a skilled and trained fur man—just as they would go to a highly skilled doctor for some physical remedy. If they want a jam-up stylish suit of clothes, they go to a practical tailor—a man who knows—not merely just to the man who sells clothes. They have learned of my long and practical experience in handling furs—in repairing, remodeling, reconditioning them, to say nothing of the expert workmanship that I guarantee—and as a consequence I am much gratified at the reception I have received from fur owners and fur wearers."

'Thoro' System Does Same for Your Basement

Many claims have been made in regard to sealing basement leaks from the inside, and quite a few people have suffered bitter disappointment trying various products without success.

Experiment no more. The Atlanta Aggregate Co., distributor of Thoro System products, can show you how to seal basement sealing in your home with successful applications.

According to representatives of the Atlanta Aggregate Co., Thoro System products have been used for 42 years on some of the nation's toughest waterproofing jobs. No matter where they've been used—90 feet below New York Harbor, or in the tunnel 200 feet under Niagara Falls, or in factories, homes, and construction projects—the application of Thoro System products has been successful. That's why they are regularly specified by local architects, engineers, and contractors.

Three Basic Materials
Years of experience proves that a combination of materials is necessary to dry up the various water problems encountered by the home-owner, contractor and industrial firm. The Thoro System of water control comprises three basic materials—Waterplug, Thoro-seal, and Quicksal.

A fast-setting hydraulic cement, Waterplug is used to stop running streams of water, fill and seal cracks, form-wire holes or the angle formed at the junction of walls and floor. It is also valuable around the home, factory or office building, as a maintenance material, in setting ornamental iron, anchor bolts, dowels, as well as many other uses in emergency repairs.

"Thoro-seal" Is Sealer
A slow-setting, mortar-type material, Thoro-seal is applied by brush or trowel over wall surfaces for complete sealing of all wall area. Over porous masonry surfaces, it is more easily applied than paint, and its high structural strength assures results against extreme pressures. It also provides pleasing decoration, being available in white and a number of attractive colors.

A finer-ground material, Quicksal is for fine decorative finishes over Thoro-seal, where a smoother surface is desired. Produced in many pastel shades, it provides the ideal finish for your home, church, factory or office building.

Qualified Men
For assistance in solving your water problems, consult a representative of the Atlanta Aggregate Co., ALpine 8671. He represents an organization that has been producing and selling aggregates, concrete blocks, and ready-mixed concrete to Atlanta builders for many years.

THOROSEAL APPLICATION—Beautiful Lakemoor Apartments made more attractive and completely water repellent with white Thoro-seal. The Atlanta Aggregate Co. is distributor in this area for Thoro System products. See story.

Civic Leader Mrs. Little J. E. Targett's Dies; Leader Rites Today At Eventide

Funeral services for James E. Targett, 61, former Atlanta church and civic leader, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, which he had served as senior warden.

Mr. Targett died of coronary thrombosis Saturday afternoon while playing golf on the Druid Hills course here.

Mr. Targett was with the Geringer Co. here before joining the M. H. Equipment Co. of Birmingham, Ala., last December. He recently became sales manager of the Birmingham firm.

He was a member of the Druid Hills Golf Club, the Greenfield Lodge, F&AM, and the Yaarab Shrine Temple.

Mr. Targett was a native of Canada, and had lived here 38 years before moving to Birmingham.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Coffee, Tokyo, Japan, and Mrs. Ted Miller, Greenville, S.C.; five sons and a brother, all of Canada, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Targett had come to Atlanta with his wife to attend the funeral of Orme Miller.

Officiating at the funeral will be Dr. Norman Gore. Graveside rites will be conducted in Decatur cemetery by his Masonic lodge.

Palbearers will be Henry Hope, James Lofton, C. B. Jones, Dr. F. F. Free, Milton Haney and Ralph Huie.

Chiefs To Greet Elizabeth, Duke

KANDY, Ceylon, April 18 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived in this ancient hill capital of the Sinhalese kings today.

The royal couple had spent the past few days resting from the strenuous round of ceremonies during a tour of the British Commonwealth. They stayed in Nuwara Eliya, 48 miles from Kandy.

Tomorrow the Kandyan chiefs in full regalia will meet the royal couple. The Queen and Duke will take off their shoes when they enter the shrine room at Dalada Maligawa, where a sacred tooth is exhibited.

Boys Reds Freed Worship Again

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The Georgescu Brothers, until recently hostages of the Communists in Romania, attended their first church service in three years on this Holy Sunday.

The pair, 19-year-old Constantin and 15-year-old Peter, went to St. Dumitru Romanian Orthodox Church with their parents.

Valeriu Georgescu, the boys' father, said the lads were not permitted to attend church since 1951.

The Rev. Vasile Iategan, rector, told the boys that America offered them "not only such things as chewing gum, but also great spiritual and moral values."

10 in Navy Plane Lost on Ice Patrol

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 18 (AP)—A U. S. Navy plane believed to be carrying 10 persons was reported missing today on an ice patrol flight to a weather station within the Arctic Circle.

The Privateer aircraft was last heard from about noon yesterday 100 miles from Thule Airbase in Greenland en route to alert a weather station on the northern tip of Ellsmere Island.

The U. S. Northeast Air Command headquarters here said the missing plane had been based at Argentina Naval Station in Newfoundland.

"In his confession, Harrison admitted clubbing his friend with a tire iron because he laughed at his awkward attempts to change a tire."—Detective magazine story excerpt.

If you're known as a "gentle soul" . . . who very much dislikes a fight . . . and keep your temper in control . . . since you were taught that this is right . . . although you are the peaceful kind . . . (and I sincerely hope you are) . . . you will resent it if you find . . . someone is pushing you too far.

You may not be offended by . . . some things which other folks resent . . . and never ask your woman why . . . and how your monthly check was spent . . . you may be kind to dogs and cats . . . and to the mama of your wife . . . and never think the neighbor's brats . . . should be sent up to jail, for life.

But there is one thing that offends . . . the mildest-mannered man on earth . . . and that's when some one of his friends . . . is more or less convulsed with mirth . . . when he sustains some accident . . . (I mean, one of the minor kind) . . . or suffers some embarrassment . . . that is disturbing to his mind.

This so-called friend will doubtless scoff . . . at him and tell him, with a grin . . . that he should shrug the matter off . . . and learn to take it on the chin . . . and though it isn't very nice . . . it shouldn't be against the law . . . to give such givers of advice . . . a solid bust upon the jaw.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K91♥3♦AK1062♣AK103

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Partner's four-spade bid is very indefinite in its nature. It may be based upon a long weak suit where partner feels sure that there is not adequate defense against four hearts. You should therefore be satisfied to produce a game. A slam effort should not be made, for a contract of five spades is by no means safe. You must count on losing a heart, and even if partner's spades are solid, that does not necessarily mean that you can bring in the minor suits without the loss of a trick.

Q. 2—Your partner opens with two diamonds and you hold:
♠J10864♥9642♦A♣543

What is your response?
A.—Two no trump. A two-spade bid is not acceptable, for the minimum bid is to justify a positive response to a two bid is five to the queen-jack. A negative response should be made and you may show the spades on the next round.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠5♥Q8♦KQJ643♣AK106

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 diamond Pass 1 heart Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four diamonds. Partner has shown a fairly good hand which evidently fits, and the bulk of your strength should be shown at this point. Partner may be able to bid a slam upon the basis of your jump or may permit you to bid a slam if he makes so bold as to show the ace of spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠J876♥52♦AK108♣654

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1 heart 1 no trump

What do you bid now?
A.—Two no trump. Your partner's one no trump overall should be shown the same respect as one does an opening one no trump bid. You have a balanced hand with eight points, and the raise is indicated.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠KJ862♥K6♦J5♣A862

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
3 no trump Pass 3 spades West

What do you bid now?
A.—Six no trump. Even though partner may have a minimum two no trump opening, you are assured that he has at least 22 points in high cards, which combined with your 12 points give you a comfortable margin with which to take on the slam commitment.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠7♥AKJ52♦AQ106♣942

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
3 no trump Pass 3 spades West

What do you bid now?
A.—Six no trump. Even though partner may have a minimum two no trump opening, you are assured that he has at least 22 points in high cards, which combined with your 12 points give you a comfortable margin with which to take on the slam commitment.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠J10954♥KQ♦AQ88♣2

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
2 clubs 1 spade Double Redouble

What do you bid now?
A.—When an opponent doubles your opening bid and partner redoubles, the accepted practice is to pass the response around to your partner, who has committed himself by the redouble to take some action. In this case, however, we recommend a bid of two diamonds. There is no advantage in passing the two-club bid around to partner, for with your unbalanced hand and you are not the least bit interested in hearing a penalty double, and this is the most convenient time to describe the type of hand you hold.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠J10954♥KQ♦AQ88♣2

The bidding has proceeded:

Best Waitresses Use Applied Psychology

Marjorie L., 27, is a waitress in a restaurant near my office. "Hello," she cheerily greeted two other physicians and myself as soon as we sat down at a table.

"I'll be with you in a minute," she added, with a smile, "but meanwhile maybe you'd like to look over the menu," and she handed each of us a menu card. "She's a snappy waitress, all right," one of my colleagues added as soon as she had turned away.

"You just watch her and you'll find that she can wait on twice as many customers as any other girl in the place."

"She organizes her work, too, which is why she handles so many customers without apparent rushing."

RESTAURANT PSYCHOLOGY
So I observed Marjorie carefully, and she fulfilled what my medical colleague had said. She always smiled and greeted new customers, cordially even though she wasn't immediately able to wait upon them.

In other words, if she was bringing in a tray of food for another table, she would smile across at the new people who had just sat down nearby.

Watch this trait, for it is the mark of a good salesperson, whether in restaurants or department stores.

Stolid, second-rate salesclerks stick to the customer at hand and don't even acknowledge the presence of other prospects who may be waiting for service.

EMOTIONAL FOOD
It isn't enough that a restaur-rant offer good food for the stomach. It should also give its patrons the psychological food for their emotions, such as smiles and cordial greetings and a friendly, homelike atmosphere.

A charming waitress or jolly waiter is worth as much as the calibre of food on the menu. Good waitresses also are fastidious and hygienic. They don't handle dirty money at the cashier's till and then pick up pats of butter in their fingers the next moment.

They don't carry newly washed water glasses by sticking their fingers and thumb down the insides so they can hold three or four glasses at a time.

Nor do they pick up forks and spoons by the "mouth" end.

The super-duper waiter also remembers the names of his customers and pays them compliments on their new hat or frock, etc. A topnotch restaurant should be a happy substitute for one's childhood home dining room.

Flanagan Offers Old Favorites In Dance Tunes

RALPH FLANAGAN AND HIS ORCHESTRA—Junior-Senior Prom, and The Freshmen-Sophomore Frolics. Two 10-inch albums. RCA.

The popular Flanagan band offers a choice variety of dance tunes, including such favorites as "You," "Merry Widow," "Why," "A-Flat Swing," "A Rose and a Star," "Smoke Dreams" and many others. A select set.

TSCHAIKOWSKY—Symphony No. 5. Leopold Stokowski conducting his symphony orchestra. RCA.

A new hi-fi recording of a long-time favorite. Stokowski's influence is very evident. The interpretation is unusually good.

KISMET—Alfred Drake and the original Broadway cast, including Doretta Morrow, Joan Diener, Henry Calvin and Richard Kiley. Columbia.

A full-scale version of the tremendously popular musical based on music by Alexander

Borodin and a play by Edward Knoblock. It's choice.

KISMET—Percy Faith and his orchestra. Columbia.

A small-scale version of the show featuring the Faith Orchestra in orchestral interpretations. This one tops for those who do not care for the lyric passages.

5 Fishermen Near H-Blast Appear Doomed

TOKYO, Monday, April 19 (AP). Japanese physicians apparently see no hope of recovery for five of the 23 Japanese fishermen affected by radioactive dust from the March hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific.

The Japan Academy of Blood Studies in a statement Saturday said: "Actually nothing can be done but just watch five of the 23 patients for there is no adequate cure for them."

The fishermen were aboard the tuna boat Lucky Dragon about 80 miles from the scene of the bomb test. The boat was showered with coral dust raised by the blast. All suffered skin burns.

Japan To Ask Soviet For Fishing Rights

Delegate going to Moscow
Next Month for Negotiations

By LINDSAY PARROTT

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TOKYO, April 18—Japan is planning to open unofficial negotiations with the Soviet Union for the restoration of some fishing rights in northern waters.

The Japan Fisheries Association announced that its chairman, Tsunejiro Hiratsuka, will be sent to Moscow early next month to discuss with Soviet authorities the question of fishing rights off the Kuriles and Sakhalin and in the Bering Sea and Sea of Okhotsk, which have been barred to Japanese craft since World War II.

FISHERY MEN

The association, the largest organization of its type here, represents important private fisheries companies as well as fishermen's cooperatives formed under post-occupation laws.

The decision to send a representative to Moscow was taken at a special directors' meeting yesterday, apparently with the blessing of the Japanese Foreign Office. The action represents a new step in the campaign here to step up meager trade with the Soviet. This would offset the decline in Japanese income resulting from the reduction of U.S. special procurement because of the ending of the Korean war.

RED ENVOYS

The Foreign Office recently made known that Soviet commercial agents would be welcome in Japan under special conditions, and Moscow apparently is increasingly willing to make barter arrangements here, particularly for ship construction and repair.

The newspaper Asahi said today it is understood that no objection would be made by the Foreign Office to Hiratsuka's planned visit to the Soviet, as opposed to previous unofficial Japanese "trade delegations" that visited the Soviet Union and Communist China without benefit of official papers but brought back glowing accounts of commercial possibilities if relations could be restored.

The northern fishing fields' importance to the Japanese scarcely can be exaggerated. Before the war, under a series of leases and provisional arrangements with the Soviet, Japan sent more than 20,000 fishermen annually into the waters of Kamchatka maritime province to man not only fishing ships but also large floating canneries. As a result the Japanese were able to export about $6,000,000 worth of canned crabmeat and salmon a year as well as to provide a considerable quantity of much-needed food for the overpopulated home islands.

Boats that enter the proscribed waters frequently are seized—a dozen this year alone—and Soviet patrol boats sometimes come right up to the Japanese coastline off Hoggaido to grab ships and crews.

DOGS CAN LEARN MANY WORDS
H. S. Gatchell and His Friend, the "Kid"

Blue-Blooded Mongrel Knows 2,000 Words

If H. S. Gatchell had his way the whole world could go to the dogs.

Here's a man who firmly believes in the old bromide: "A man's best friend is his dog." As a matter of fact, the 73-year-old man thinks that they are a lot more company than most human beings ("They never give you any arguments.")

To prove that canines are really pretty smart folks, Gatchell produces Exhibit A—a mongrel pup with some royal blood named Kid.

Kid responds to Gatchell's words with the intelligence of a child. According to his master, the dog knows more than 2,000 words.

If Gatchell tells the dog to pick out the tallest man in the room, Kid looks around, casually picks out the tallest man in the room.

"There's something on the wall that has the days of the week on it," Kid says dog-lover Gatchell. "Where is it?"

Kid takes a gander, romps to the wall and scratches his paw across a low-hanging calendar.

144,846 Georgians on Public Payroll, With 56,085 Working for Uncle Sam

Georgia has 144,846 citizens on the public payroll, the Bureau of Census reported in Washington Sunday.

The bureau reported that 56,085 of the public employees are on the federal civilian payroll. The others are on state, city, and county payrolls and include some part-time employees.

The public employment survey disclosed that Georgia has a ratio of 157.2 federal workers per 10,000 population, and 243.2 state, county, and city employees per 10,000 population. The national ratio per 10,000 population is 140.8, federal, and 284.4, state and local.

Fund Cuts Paired by '53 Slashes

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Moneywise and percentage-wise, the 1954 House budget-cutting drive has fallen flat on its face when measured by last year's yardstick.

Bills appropriating 11½ billion dollars in operating funds for nine big federal agencies and more than a score of independent bureaus and departments have passed the House this year. They have been cut approximately 600 millions, or about five per cent of the total of 12,100,000,000 requested by President Eisenhower.

Last year, when Congress set a record of 14 billion dollars in budget-cutting, the House had cut $2,900,000,000, or about 20 per cent by former President Truman for the same agencies. Based on President Eisenhower's revised budget last year, the cut was about 70 million.

The Eisenhower budget for this year is what is known in Congress as a "tight budget," leaving the legislators little leeway in making reductions. It calls for new appropriations of $6½ billion.

Some Republicans believe it would have been politically wiser for President Eisenhower to have submitted a "fatter" budget in order to let GOP lawmakers do more cutting and make a better showing in this congressional year. They had hoped to be able to cut the new budget anywhere from three to five billion dollars.

Congress will not reach either of those figures unless it makes heavy slashes in the few appropriation bills still being drafted.

The remaining bills finance the Defense Department, the foreign aid program, the legislative branch, the Labor Department, the Welfare Department, and the District of Columbia. The really big ones are defense and foreign aid.

Congress could, if it wished, make huge cuts in the defense and foreign aid budgets, both of which were sharply trimmed by the President before they went to Congress. But some leading congressmen have voiced fear the defense budget has been pared too much already.

Mexico Clips Peso Due to Slump in U.S.

MEXICO CITY, April 18 (AP)—The new rate of exchange of the Mexican peso—12½ to $1—goes into effect tomorrow.

The unexpected action taken by the Mexican government lowers the value of the peso from 11.6 American cents to eight cents. It is the second time in less than five years that Mexico has devalued the peso.

Treasury Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores, who announced the devaluation plan last night, said the move was caused by uncertainty over the U.S. business recession.

"The domestic factors which influence the monetary situation were and, in general, are satisfactory," he said. "But international, although it is the general opinion that the depression of catastrophic proportions of 1932 will not be repeated and that the actual recession (in the United States) will be dominated, it is thought that the process will be difficult."

Carrillo Flores said "the crisis came" between April 9 and April 14, when Mexico banks closed for the Easter holiday. They will reopen tomorrow.

The Bank of Mexico warned that a greater than normal drop in its gold and exchange reserves was starting, "with heavy purchases of dollars by Mexican capitalists, he said.

Rebels Still Want Ceasefire, Moscow Radio Reports

LONDON, April 18 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that the Communist-led rebels in Indochina still are prepared to negotiate a ceasefire with French Union forces.

The broadcast, coming on the eve of the Geneva conference, quoted a statement made by rebel leader Ho Chi Minh last Nov. 29 in an interview with the Swedish newspaper Expressen.

"It is clear," the broadcast said, "that an expression of good will on the part of French authorities would produce a real possibility for the restoration of peace in Indochina."

The broadcast said "The Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam is prepared to begin negotiations on a ceasefire. A firm statement to this effect was made by President Ho Chi Minh in an interview with the correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Expressen published last November 29."

The Indochinese Reds have stated on several occasions that they are willing to talk about a negotiated peace.

Urges Halt In Funds for McCarthy

It's Duty of Senate, Cooper Asserts

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Sen. Cooper (R-Ky.) said today the Senate has a duty to cut off funds from any committee that abuses its powers.

He said he feels the Senate did not do its duty in the case of Sen. McCarthy's investigating subcommittee, and personally regrets that he voted to give new funds to the McCarthy group earlier this year.

PLAN MEETING

Acting Subcommittee Chairman Mundt (R-SD) meantime said the group will meet with McCarthy (R-Wis) tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. to try to fix the "ground rules" for its televised hearings on the senator's dispute with the Army, slated to begin Thursday.

Mundt, named temporary chairman for the McCarthy-Army inquiry, said he has not heard from McCarthy, who has been on a Western vacation, and therefore he assumes the senator will be on hand tomorrow morning as planned.

PROBE CASE

The subcommittee is investigating the Army's charges that McCarthy and his chief subcommittee counsel, Roy M. Cohn, pressured the Army to get special treatment for G. David Schine, subcommittee consultant who was drafted.

It also is looking into countercharges by McCarthy and Cohn that the Army tried to "blackmail" them into dropping their investigation of alleged Reds in the Army.

Mundt told a reporter he expects to discuss with the subcommittee the "formation" of a formal McCarthy statement of his charges against the Army. The Army filed its formal charges last week, accusing McCarthy and Cohn of "improper" pressure in Schine's behalf.

Weekend Traffic Kills 7 Georgians

Easter holiday traffic crashes brought death to six persons on Georgia highways, while a Georgian was killed in an automobile accident at Chattanooga, the State Patrol reported Sunday night.

T. Sgt. Billy Wayne Bourland, 26, of Warner Robins, died Sunday in the Robins Air Force Base Hospital of injuries suffered late Saturday night when his car overturned on State Highway 247 about a mile north of Warner Robins.

FLIPS AT HIGH SPEED

State Trooper Johnny Mooreland said the car apparently went out of control while traveling at high speed. A passenger in the car was unhurt, the trooper added.

John W. Cawthorn, 64, of Chickamauga, Ga., was killed and four others injured, none seriously, when the car he was driving collided with a car driven by William E. Jeffress of Chattanooga on heavily traveled Brainerd Rd.

A Dalton driver was killed instantly about 11 p.m. Sunday when his car smashed into a bridge on Georgia Highway 72, three miles west of Chatsworth. Murray County Sheriff Tom Peebles identified the victim as C. D. Mitchell. Witnesses said the car struck the bridge with such force that the vehicle almost disintegrated.

AMERICUS VICTIM

John L. Farmer, 55, of near Americus was killed when his car left the road at a high rate of speed and overturned about five miles south of Americus on Sunday afternoon.

David Whitehead, listed as a Ft. Benning soldier, was killed Saturday when his car overturned south of Americus.

Charles Daniels, 3, of Naylor, died when he stepped in front of a moving car in his yard. The State Patrol said the car's driver did not see the child.

Howell Harston Lovell, 24, of Rt. 6, Gainesville, died Sunday of injuries resulting from an automobile accident near Americus Saturday.

SPEAKERS GET THE WORKS HERE

Blunt Criticism Waxes Tongues of Shy Guys

By BILL DIEHL

The speaker at a recent Atlanta club luncheon meeting was in the middle of a sentence when a little black box buzzed viciously. He looked slightly abashed, finished his sentence and sat down.

The "buzzer" announced, in effect, "Okay, bub, shut up and sit down."

To add insult to injury, one member of the club stood up and suggested that the speaker could have prepared his material a little better and might have injected a little humor into his talk.

POOR MANNERS

"It got dull in spots," he said. In most circumstances, this type of blunt criticism of an after-dinner speaker would constitute poor manners—although most club members have probably had the urge more than once to "put the buzzer" on a guest for speaking too long.

In this case, however, it was all part of the game. The club was Georgia Tech's Toastmaster's Club, one of eight groups in the Atlanta metropolitan area which teaches members how to get up on their feet in front of an audience and keep it entertained—whether discussing the technical aspects of thermonuclear fission or giving a good recipe for a mint julep.

Once a week the 25 members get together over lunch and spend an hour or more panning each other. Every word spoken and every gesture made before the group is fair game for the critical eyes and ears of the rest of the members.

"FLAG WAVING"

But the club is turning out men who can give an informative talk without resorting to "flag waving" (thrashing the arms about to illustrate a point) or "booming" (speaking in a loud, monotonous voice).

These are just beginning points, however, for before too long in his weekly "lessons," the speaker criticized for looking in the wrong place at the wrong time, resorting to the vocal comma, "er ah," not smiling enough, smiling too much, slouching, standing too straight, and even his choice of topic.

This is the most critical audience which ever listened to an after-dinner speaker.

MEMBER GRADES

While one member makes his weekly speech another "grades" the talk on a printed sheet. Following the speech, the grader reads his criticism—and if he breaks any rules he's just as liable to criticism as his target for the day.

These "insults" have enabled businessmen, professional men, college professors and clergymen to improve their speaking ability. Strangely enough, college professors are among the worst offenders. One member pointed out:

"We had a professor who joined the club. Every time he got up to speak he had trouble with his coat—buttoning and unbuttoning it a dozen times during the course of a one-minute talk. When he wasn't doing that he was dry-washing his hands. He said 'er ah' between every second or third word. Brother, he was a mess."

After suffering through several lessons, the professor was speaking with the ease of a gag writer at a salesman's convention. His students are still probably wondering how the sudden change.

CALIFORNIA START

The idea of making toastmasters out of shy guys belongs to Ralph Smedley, the scholarly secretary of a California YMCA who, in 1924, decided the art of public speaking was deteriorating rapidly.

On Oct. 22, 1924, he held the first Toastmaster's Club meeting at the Santa Ana YMCA. Today, as educational director for Toastmaster's International, Smedley

'Still on Wheels' Captured Here; Pair Is Arrested

Two Atlanta patrolmen early Sunday seized what they described as a "still on wheels" and arrested two men on suspicion of whiskey.

Patrolmen H. C. Cochran and W. W. Gable reported they seized a 1½-ton truck containing a complete still in the back. Listed as confiscated were: an upright boiler, eight 160-gallon barrels, 48 sacks of coke, one flue boiler, two boiler gauges, a water injector, connecting pipes and fittings.

Rufus Hood, 31, Negro, of 624 Jones Ave., NW, and Hubert Ralston, 46, of Canton, a white man, were arrested on suspicion of whiskey.

The officers said they stopped the truck because "it just looked suspicious." The apparatus was turned over to federal officers.

The district (Southeastern states) competition and the winners will go to a region meet at from there to the national trials at Washington, D.C.

The winner receives a trophy but his real reward is much greater. It means he has mastered one of the most difficult of all arts—speaking intelligently when he opens his mouth.
